Young Canadians Showed Bravery

King Honors Local Sailors

"He's one of the best—I knew he would do good work—he's deserved that medal."

Such were the excited exclamations this morning of Jack Bland, 623 Wilson Street, when he learned his son-in-law, Stoker Petty Officer Joseph E. Lemieux, had been made a member of the Order of the British Empire by King George VI for meritorious service when H.M.C.S. Fraser was sunk off Bordeaux, France, last June.

Mrs. Lemieux was formerly Eva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bland. At present she is in Halifax with her daughter, Bernice, who wanted to be closer to her daddy when he returned to Canada on leave.

Petty Officer Lemieux and his wife lived at 902 Esquimalt Road until he left for the Atlantic coast aboard the Fraser immediately war started.

SEVEN HONORED

Lemieux was one of seven Canadians given high honors for bravery at the time of the Fraser sinking and subsequent rescue by H.M.C.S. Restigouche. Announcement of the awards was made in Ottawa last night by Navy Minister Angus Macdonald.

All seven are well known in Victoria, where they lived until departure of their ships about a year ago.

Able-seaman Harry Leggett, 27, a native of Regina, lived at 3018 Jutland Road. Mrs. Leggett is now in Halifax. He was mentioned in dispatches and has been recommended for award of the Albert Medal for life-saving and promotion to rank of leading seaman for his conduct during the loss of the Fraser.

Stoker first class G. W. Foster, 22, also mentioned in dispatches, joined the R.C.N. in 1936 and lived formerly at 454 Admiral's Road with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Foster. They left for Edmonton a few weeks ago to meet their son, who is in Canada on leave from the Restigouche.

P.O. Lemieux, with his wife, the former Eva Bland of Victoria.

He was born in Winnipeg and during his leave is spending some time there with his mother and father. Gladys, is in her second year of training at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

DOCTOR MENTIONED

Others mentioned in dispatches are Surgeon-Lieut. T. B. McLean, R.C.N.V.R., Edmonton, who was aboard Fraser; able seamen J. H. R. Rosa, Vancouver, and Francis St. Pierre of Camrose, Alberta, and ordinary seaman H. A. Patterson of Kelowna, who were on Restigouche.

Surgeon-Lieut. McLean, who formerly lived here, was born in 1910 at Legal, Alberta. He joined the R.C.N.V.R. as ordinary seaman in 1929 and completed 10 years of training at the Edmonton reserve division as a seaman.

being appointed surgeon-leutenant at the outbreak of war. He graduated from the medical school of University of Alberta early last year. Since the start of war he has served in destroyers Ottawa, Saguenay and Fraser, and is now in the new Canadian destroyer Margaree. During the Fraser sinking he was wounded.

Able Seaman Ross, 22, was born in England in 1918. At present he is stationed at Esquimalt. He joined the R.C.N. as a boy seaman two years ago. His mother lives in Vancouver.

Able Seaman St. Pierre, 19, was born at Sheerness, Alberta, but lived most of his life in Camrose. He enlisted in the R.C.N. as a boy seaman in 1933.

Ordinary Seaman Patterson, 18, was born in Kelowna.

'London Can Take It, Definitely Carrying On'

By BRIAN A. TOBIN
British United Press Staff
Correspondent

LONDON—Transfer within a few days from the sunny, warm, peaceful Pacific coast of Canada to the heart of the Empire, with a trip across the stormy Atlantic in what used to be an American destroyer thrown in, provided the ultimate in contrasts.

I arrived in London from the debarkation port at night, during an air raid. Since then I have gone through more than a score of alarms, including the worst of Hitler's nightly blitzes.

Because of that I am able to add my voice in checking Nazi claims against facts.

BERLIN CLAIMS CHECKED

The other morning we read a Berlin report which said: "Smoke rising into the air made it difficult to discover further targets (in London) last night."

Actually, I walked through central London after midnight, through an area which a few hours earlier had been heavily bombed. Anti-aircraft guns were still banging away, and occasional bombs came thudding down.

As I walked along one of the streets, comparing this corner and that with the way they looked during my last stay here early in the war, the air was clear in all directions. Only a faint haze several thousand feet up obscured some stars. But bright moonlight clearly outlined buildings many blocks away.

Only traces of smoke visible came from burning shrapnel, four miles in the sky over London, aimed at lone raiding planes.

$250,000 CHEQUE FOR WAR EFFORT

The personal cheque for $250,000 for Canada's war effort has been given by J. Herbert Curle of London, world-famous mining man, author and journalist; it became known today. The cheque was handed over by Mr. Curle to the late Lord Tweedsmuir last November, after discussion with

The Berlin report also said: "Towards morning, a heavy pall of smoke colored red by flames, hung over the city, presenting a frightful picture."

Actually, I saw only three fires burning in a wide area. None of the fires spread beyond the buildings which were actually struck by bombs, and all were confined to upper stories.

London's fearless civilian firemen had no difficulty rushing pumps and other equipment to the scenes of these fires, and there was no heavy pall of smoke nor were there any further fires.

The tangled maze of hoses littering the streets was all gone by morning, when traffic returned to normal.

THEN FROM GOEBBELS

Another Goebbels' report said: "It is improbable that ordered, disciplined life can be carried on in London."

Actually, during the daytime life in the city appears little different than when I saw it last fall and in previous years. Although gasoline rationing has reduced traffic here, plenty of buses, trucks, taxis and private cars fill the streets during the rush hours.

Although hundreds of thousands of "nonessentials," mostly women and children, have left the city, large crowds still appear on the sidewalk during the day. Only a few stragglers are seen at night.

During the day, air raid warnings are almost always ignored.

PERCENTAGE SMALL

It would be idle to deny the city has been damaged and damaged badly. Buildings have been blasted, roads blown up, gas and water temporarily cut off from some minor areas. People have been killed and wounded nightly. Nearly everyone has a story to tell about personal escapes.

But the city is big enough to take it. For example, a hundred casualties in a city of 8,000,000 represents only one in 80,000.

Delivery of goods is delayed, but one can buy anything in the stores. Thousands of people spend an entire night in the shelters and appear at work the next morning. Rationing causes little worry. When roads are damaged traffic is rerouted, but not stopped.

The people are carrying out self-imposed discipline, and are ready for anything. London is definitely carrying on.

Gen. Alexander Takes Command

Major-Gen. R. O. Alexander, upon whose experienced shoulders rests the weighty burden of defending Canada's Pacific coast against any emergency, arrived in Victoria today and immediately began mapping out plans that will take shape as the Pacific defence command.

The general registered at the Empress Hotel and went first thing this morning to Work Point Barracks to confer with Brigadier C. V. Stockwell, D.O.C. Military District No. 11, and other staff officers.

With the brigadier he made a tour of the lower island defences. The general has taken offices temporarily at the military headquarters, but where his permanent headquarters will be is as yet undecided, the military authorities said.

His new command takes in both British Columbia and Alberta military districts, and involves the co-ordination of all defences within the area. His concern is with the operational end of active service units, apart from training activities which are directed by the military headquarters.

First Official Report of Defeat of Germans Sept. 16

R.A.F. Triumph Smashes Nazi Invasion Attempt

LONDON (CP)—The bombing of a German attempt at sea-borne invasion of England on September 16, with Nazi troops forced by the Royal Air Force to disembark before their ships could shove off from the invasion coast, was officially reported for the first time today.

A brief mention by the Air Ministry news service and slight elaboration by authoritative aviation sources and the Press Association, belatedly filled out announcements at the time to present a picture of a terrific assault on the German-held invasion ports in which several German ships were sunk or damaged.

Full credit for nipping the budding invasion and throwing Hitler's timetable completely out of kilter went to R.A.F. bombers for "the ferocity of their attack."

The story was pieced together as well as possible considering official reticence.

Dutch Admirer R.A.F.'s Deadly Aim

The Air Ministry news service, quoting reliable neutral sources in a long survey of damage inflicted on the Germans, made this brief reference to the invasion attempt:

"There is evidence, too, of the value of the R.A.F.'s determined attacks on invasion ports. One report states that on September 16 many German troops embarked, but were taken off the ships."

"The invasion plans were not adopted because of the sustained offensive by the R.A.F., whose extraordinary accuracy in bombing incidentally has been much admired by the Dutch."

On September 16 the R.A.F. communique told of a direct hit on a German warship, severe damage to an oil tanker and supply ship and the sinking of three supply ships and damage to others.

Watch Effect On Future Moves

Whether the pounding of Germany's invasion facilities was believed sufficient to cause the Nazis to give up their long-range plan, the aviation sources would not say.

The succinct account of the British success was given official status by the Air Ministry news service, which first reported it.

The service quoted "a reliable neutral source" as saying that "on September 16 many German troops were embarked but were later taken off the ships... because of the sustained offensive by the Royal Air Force."

It was the first official acknowledgment that Nazi troops had tried to cross the Channel.

Constant Pounding Decisive Move

If the Germans attempted invasion on dates other than September 16, the aviation sources said, the fact it did not develop "can only be attributed to repeated performances of a similar nature by the R.A.F."

These quarters kept close silence on the details of the September 16 engagement. Their silence left only the R.A.F. communique for that day to hint the place or places of the asserted German defeat.

They would not comment on the number of German casualties.

R.A.F. Triumphed And Lost No Planes

The invasion attempt was crushed without loss of a British plane. The R.A.F. communique covering that day said all the attackers returned safely.

The German high command's communique, issued September 17, but covering September 16, offered no denial of any such R.A.F. offensive action.

"Yesterday and last night the enemy attempted no attacks on German territory," it said. But it did not mention German-held territory.

The R.A.F. communique of September 16, and an Air Ministry news service announcement of the succeeding day told in detail of a big-scale assault and of a reconnaissance to ascertain dispositions of "the German sea forces" the day after "harassing bombing action" and a Channel gale which had scattered the Nazis' surface craft.

The two British announcements, in lieu of a more detailed account, offer the best picture of the attack credited with smashing the invasion attempt.

Many Nazi Ships Bombed Sept. 15-16

During the night of September 15-16 the R.A.F. bombed Berlin and "further heavy attacks were made on concentrations of war supplies, barges and shipping at the dockyards and ports of Hamburg, Wilhelmshaven, Antwerp, Flushing, Ostend, Dunkerque, Calais and Boulogne," the communique said.

"Other forces of R.A.F. bombers attacked distribution centres at Hamm, Osnabruck, Soest and Krefeld. Goods yards at Hamburg and the railway junction at Rheine were also bombed."

"A direct hit was made on an enemy warship off Terschelling (an island off the Netherlands coast). An oil tanker and a supply ship in the Elbe estuary (north-west Germany) were severely damaged. Aircraft of the coastal command sank an enemy supply ship off IJmuiden (the Netherlands). Convoys off the Dutch coast were also attacked. Two supply ships were sunk and others severely damaged."

Ships and Wharves Blasted By Bombs

"Attacks were also made on the shipping and docks at Le Havre, where ships alongside the quays and the quays themselves were repeatedly hit."

"From these extensive and successful operations all our aircraft returned safely."

Starting at dawn on September 17, British reconnaissance planes combed the German-held coastline of the Channel area for signs of any German invasion fleet, the Air Ministry news service said.

"Searches on a large scale had been organized overnight to ascertain sudden changes in the dispositions of the German sea forces," the news service went on.

"These changes were imposed on the enemy after a day of harassing bombing action and in consequence of the strong westerly wind which swept the Channel through the night."

Vessels Scattered And Sought Shelter

"It blew with gale force in exposed places where the German surface craft had been last sighted. Most of the Channel was very rough and, as was expected, the enemy ships and small craft had scattered and scurried to seek shelter."

"Their positions were quickly located today by the coastal command... Today the coastal command aircraft escorted many large (British) convoys of merchant vessels and there was not a single enemy attempt at molestation by air or sea."

The day of the now reported invasion smashing was marked by a German announcement that Goering had personally scouted London the night of September 15 at the controls of a Junkers plane and by a new German shelling of Dover which injured 11 persons.

Several persons arriving in New York from Europe recently have told of seeing bodies of German soldiers washed ashore at French Channel ports.

There have been repeated reports that invasion had been attempted.

A highly-placed government official of a conquered nation, who asked that his identity be withheld, said when he arrived September 20 that German officers had told him practice manoeuvres for invasion had cost the Germans 10,000 men.

Nine days earlier, the New York Sun said letters had been received in New York by French residents indicating the Nazis already had attempted to land forces in England.

These letters, the Sun said, related disastrous results for the German thrust, but gave few details. "Some said the German invading fleet had put out from St. Made with the west coast of England as the goal."

Officers Want To Stay in Paris

One letter, said by the newspaper to have been written by a French official acting in liaison with the German army of occupation, said German officers were happy in Paris and that they especially hoped they would "not be chosen to participate in another disastrous attempt to disembark troops in England."

From other sources in New York came later stories of "practiced invasions" having been made on the French "invasion coast."

On September 20, Capt. Carl Ter Weele, 37, a former Netherlands artillery captain, told on his arrival from Europe that Nazi troops under training for invasion were rebelling. Columns of mutineers were marched back to labor camps, their hands trussed behind their backs, he said.

Passengers in the American Export liner Exeter, on which the Netherlands officers arrived, said the morale of the German army had slumped perceptibly because of severe losses in life suffered in practice manoeuvres looking to an invasion of Britain. They said British naval craft had blasted ships and barges which Germany had put into the English Channel for "exercise manoeuvres."

Disaster Report Said 50,000 Lost

On September 24, informed British military spokesmen in London refused to comment on dispatches from the French-Spanish border, published in the London Daily Mail, that Germany had lost "between 50,000 and 60,000 picked troops" in a disaster of September 16 when a Channel gale scattered Hitler's "invasion fleet."

Neutral military sources in London were inclined to discount the report.

The assertions were made by Harold Cardoso, a special correspondent on the French-Spanish border. His story, in full said: "Hitler lost between 50,000 and 60,000 picked troops in a disaster which scattered his invasion fleet a week ago today, it is learned here. They were victims of Channel storms and merciless R.A.F. bombardment."

"Because the German troops had already suffered heavy losses from British bombing, the Nazi high command decided to make new dispositions."

"The invasion fleet, consisting of thousands of barges and small vessels, was taken out of the ports and moored along the lonely Flanders coast."

Instant Move Idea Brought Trouble

"Most of the vessels carried their full complement of troops since the keynote of the Nazi plan has been readiness for instant action."

"Sunday (September 15) saw the fleet ready for the cross-Channel dash, but the terrific beating meted out to Nazi planes (185 were shot down in battles over Britain) held up the order to sail."

"Then on Monday, southwest gales swept the Channel. The Flanders coast is notoriously dangerous at this season. It became a death trap. The German tugs tried desperately to get the barges to safety, but scores of them were overturned, drowning thousands of soldiers."

"Convoys of barges and tugs were moved to safe waters—to meet renewed bombing raids and more gales."

Great Nazi Losses At Cherbourg

No longer than yesterday a dispatch from Madrid to the London Daily Express said German losses at Cherbourg as a result of Royal Air Force raids were estimated at between 40,000 and 50,000 wounded.

The dispatch said its source of information was neutral observers reaching Madrid and added that "almost every civil military hospital from the Belgian to the Spanish frontier has been requisitioned."

German Destroyers Decline Close Fight

Nazi Warships Flee Before British

LONDON (CP)—A flotilla of German destroyers "retired precipitately" without damaging any British vessel when British ships attempted to engage them 100 miles southwest of Land's End yesterday, the Admiralty and the Air Ministry announced today in a communique.

None of the British ships was damaged.

British authorities called a Nazi claim of a torpedo hit on a British warship pure "imagination," and emphasized that the Germans—not the British—ran and that the action was "nowhere near the spot mentioned by the Germans."

The Admiralty-Air Ministry communique said:

"Yesterday morning a force of German destroyers was sighted and reported by an aircraft of the coastal command. The enemy flotilla, consisting of four ships, was steaming west of Brest. Visibility was low. British light forces in the vicinity proceeded at high speed to intercept and endeavor to bring the enemy into action."

"During the afternoon visibility cleared and soon after 4 p.m. one of our cruisers engaged the enemy at extreme range in a position about 100 miles southwest of Land's End.

"The enemy retired precipitately upon being engaged. Our forces gave chase, but the enemy in the falling light were able to escape into Brest. During the pursuit enemy aircraft made two attacks on our ships, but obtained no hits and bombers of the coastal command of the R.A.F. attacked the enemy."

"A bomb was seen to fall close to the bow of one enemy destroyer but the result of the attacks could not be ascertained owing to the gathering darkness."

"Today's German high command communique not only stated an action between German destroyers and British cruisers and destroyers took place at the entrance to the Bristol Channel, but claimed the German forces scored a torpedo hit on one of our warships. No damage was in fact sustained by any of our ships."

Nazi Report Action In Wrong Region

BERLIN (AP)—The German high command issued a communique Friday which said:

"German destroyers advanced to sea battle at the exit of the Bristol Channel with a British cruiser unit protected by destroyers. Our destroyers attacked the superior enemy and scored a torpedo hit on one enemy warship. The foe thereupon broke off the fight. Planes chased the enemy. The German destroyers returned undamaged to their base."

The date of the fight was not given.

Neutral Toll Results of Smashing Blows at Nazis

R.A.F. Stops or Slows Many German Plants

LONDON (CP)—A bombardment of German "invasion" bases on the French coast was carried out by the Royal Navy last night.

The bombardment was so intense that the reverberations rolled back across the waters of the Channel like thunder. Observers on the Kent coast at first thought Royal Air Force bombers were in action, but authoritative sources later attributed it to naval shelling.

Details of the action were not immediately available. The air ministry issued the following communique today: "Last night, owing to unfavorable weather conditions, all our bomber operations were cancelled."

(The Berlin communique today said: "British planes did not enter Reich territory yesterday.")

Berlin Post Office Gutted During Raids

But while the British learned their bombers had stayed home last night, the air ministry news service today told how the Royal Air Force's "master scheme" of bombing Germany has "partially wrecked several war factories in Berlin, almost gutted the Berlin general post office and seriously affected rail and water transport as well as damaging great industrial plants over a wide area."

The information service said its statement was based on fresh information drawn from reliable neutral sources.

The summary said that "five started by R.A.F. bombers during an attack on the Lehrter railway station (in Berlin) apparently burned for many hours and smoke from it covered a large area of the capital."

"One traveler, setting out from Berlin for a town in the Rhineland, had to spend three days instead of the customary 12 hours on the journey," it declared.

On the Mateland Canal traffic "was interrupted for five days after the destruction of two sluice gates," and on the Dortmund-Ems Canal "the east wall immediately north of the old aqueduct has been broken," said the service.

5 Ships Sunk At Hamburg

At Hamburg, the news service said, "five ships are said to have been sunk in the harbor during one raid. At the time this news was gathered only seven out of the 75 cranes on the quay were working."

The news service added that "confirmation has been received of damage done to petrol and synthetic oil plants at Politz, near Stettin."

At Bitterfeld large aluminum works "were closed for some weeks after a heavy raid," it said, and in the Rhineland, "the Westphalia electric works have been so badly damaged that it will be some time before they come into full operation again."

Motor Car Plant And Planes Destroyed

At Bremen the output of the Duxa motor car factory "has been greatly reduced by bombs," and at Wismar "one hangar was completely gutted and all the aircraft inside destroyed."

Among other examples of the R.A.F. effectiveness was cited the case of a tanker which "had to postpone its visit to Stettin (seaport for Berlin) as the petrol load it was to have shipped was not available."

From the same source the service learned that "on the night of October 2 a large ship, fully loaded with grain, received a direct hit, caught fire and still was burning two days later."

On the Dortmund-Ems Canal, the news service reported, there are two fresh bomb craters on the east embankment, while in the harbor loading installations and barges moored nearby have "all been damaged."

Some railway passengers report they have "had to change more than a dozen times on what was previously a straightforward trip, and even then there were long delays outside some of the stations," the news service added.

"From these reports and from others now received it is clear that the Fuehrer, by expressing a wish that all signs of bombing should be removed as quickly as possible, has set his workmen a difficult task. It is unlikely to be carried out to his full satisfaction."

Harwood Assistant Naval Staff Chief

Admiral Tovey Heads Britain's Home Fleet

LONDON (CP)—Great Britain made two changes in the Royal Navy command today which the London press regarded as highly important.

Vice-Admiral John C. Tovey, a destroyer expert and a hero of the Battle of Jutland, was appointed to the supreme command of the Home Fleet. The appointment generally was interpreted as a forerunner of intensified sea warfare. The new job corresponds to that held by the late Earl Beatty in the first Great War.

Rear-Admiral Sir Henry H. Harwood, hero of the Battle of the River Plate, was promoted to the post of Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty and assistant chief of the naval staff.

Vice-Admiral Tovey succeeds Admiral of the Fleet Sir Charles M. Forbes, while Sir Henry succeeds Vice-Admiral Sir Geoffrey Blake, selected for "a special duty" at the Admiralty.

Vice-Admiral Tovey, at 55, is one of the youngest admirals in the navy. As commander of the destroyer Onslow in the Battle of Jutland he attacked two German vessels, the second while his own craft was seriously damaged, and was awarded the Distinguished Service Order.

Directed Attack On Battlecruiser

First he engaged the German light cruiser Wiesbaden, giving her 50 rounds from his four-inch guns. Then, with his ship so disabled he could get only slow speed, he turned on the German capital ship Derfflinger with guns and torpedoes. After the battle the Onslow had to be towed by the British warship Defender.

Vice-Admiral Tovey was commander of the battleship Rodney from 1932 to 1934. Then he became naval assistant to the Second Sea Lord, commanded the navy barracks at Chatham, and later was put in charge of destroyers in the Mediterranean.

Sir Henry Harwood, who commanded the squadron of three light cruisers which shelled the German pocket battleship Graf Spee into Montevideo harbor where she was scuttled, will take over his new office December 2.

Rear-Admiral Harwood new assistant chief of naval staff.

He will co-operate with the First Sea Lord in implementing naval strategy and operation.

Press Praises Appointment

The appointment of "Jack" Tovey was treated as highly significant by London papers.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express carried the headline: "Sensational Home Fleet Change: Man of 55 Placed in Command; 'Unknown' Admiral Gets Beatty Job."

The Express intimated his appointment foreshadowed intensification of the sea war.

Sir Charles Forbes, replaced by Vice-Admiral Tovey, entered the navy at 13 as a cadet in the training ship Britannia. His rise in the navy was attributed to natural ability, hard work and courageous conduct in action.

He won the Distinguished Service Order at the Battle of Jutland, where he was fleet gunnery officer, serving on the late Earl Jellicoe's staff in the flagship Iron Duke.

In 1930 he was sent to the Mediterranean to command the fleet's destroyer flotilla. Last year he succeeded the late Sir Roger Backhouse as commander-in-chief of the Home Fleet when the latter was appointed First Sea Lord.

Burma Road Carries Supplies; Japs Bomb

RANGOON, Burma (CP)—Traffic along the Burma Road, reopened to arms shipments to China last night, rose steadily today as fleets of munitions trucks, long in readiness, moved into Chinese territory.

A British army officer said he had never seen a larger assemblage of trucks.

Burma's large Chinese population organized demonstrations to show their appreciation of Britain's decision to defy Japan and reopen the road.

Japanese Say Kunming Bombed

HONGKONG (AP)—The headquarters to the Japanese south China fleet announced that Japanese naval aircraft today attacked Kunming, southwestern China terminus of the newly reopened Burma Road. It was the first Japanese action connected with the reopening of the road.

Bombs were dropped on Chinese munitions factories in the suburbs and military establishments within the city, the communique said.

Japanese planes dived at the city, capital of Yunnan province, through gaps in heavy clouds and were not opposed by any Chinese planes.

Chinese AA Guns At Points on Road

CHUNGKING (AP)—With anti-aircraft guns reported poking skyward at many a vantage point, traffic on the road from Burma was resumed today.

Under the threat of bombing from Japanese air bases in French Indo-China, supplies for Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's armies started rolling in the early darkness today after a three-month stoppage made as a gesture to Japan by Britain in the hope a settlement between Japan and China might be reached.

Observers believe the immediate result of the reopening will be release of large stocks of arms and ammunition, now stored in western China, which had to be kept there for three months as a reserve against the possibility the road would remain closed.

Now, with stocks rolling in across the Chinese-Burmese border, depots in the border region may be emptied of the old stocks and these sent into central China for Chinese-counterattacks on advanced Japanese positions.

The Chinese press and government officials agreed, however, that the political significance of the reopening overshadows immediate material benefits.

No Present Opening Of Hongkong Route

HONGKONG (AP)—Reopening of this crown colony to the passage of petroleum products and railway material to China has been postponed indefinitely, an official announcement said today.

Petain Bars Jews From Office

VICTY (AP) — The Petain-Laval government today promulgated a statute forbidding Jews to hold any public office, to work on newspapers, to teach or to hold the rank of officer in any branch of the armed forces.

The statute, which defines a Jew as any person with three Israelite grandparents, also forbids them to work in the motion picture industry.

Action against the Jews was foreshadowed by a government statement of policy last night which blamed them for contributing "in no small degree" to the French defeat by Germany.

The statement, while promising to respect the persons and property of Jews, described the measures as "indispensable to security" and not as "a mere question of vengeance."

Today's decree states that persons with only two Jewish grandparents will be considered "Jews" also if they are married to a Jew.

The employment restrictions are not imposed on Jews who were decorated either in the last war or before the French surrender, or who "rendered distinguished services" for the fatherland in any sciences or other fields.

A second decree fixes the status of foreign Jews in France, giving department prefects the right to confine them in concentration camps or places of fixed residence.

Work Soon on Dam Across St. Lawrence

MALONE, N.Y. (AP) — Maurice P. Davidson, a trustee of the New York power authority, said today that "before many days have elapsed" engineers will begin "preliminary work" in construction of a dam across the St. Lawrence River.

Addressing the Northern Federation of Chambers of Commerce, Davidson said a work camp will be situated soon at Mesena, St. Lawrence County.

Davidson is one of five trustees who, in co-operation with Canadian authorities, are authorized to investigate possibilities of the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence River for development of hydro-electric power.

Training Delayed

EDMONTON (CP) — Approximately 100 young Albertans who were notified to go to compulsory training camps this month have not reported at the camps, according to Joseph P. McIsaac, registrar of the Provincial War Services Board.

Majority of this group did not receive their notifications because they were working in harvesting operations, the registrar said. No cases of men deliberately "dodging" the draft had yet come to the attention of the board.

As soon as the board's check-up on the men not attending is complete, men who received their notices and then did not go to camp will be prosecuted, he declared.

WRECKED BY NAZIS—All that is left of St. Barnabas' Church in Southampton is this pile of rubble and the church directory board, setting forth the hours of divine services. Southampton, great southeastern port of England, has been the target of repeated bombings by the German raiders. In the so-called "Hell's Corner" of England, it bore the brunt of bomb storms before the Germans began the business of "demolishing" London.

Raiders Hit Houses, Hospital

Britain's Night Losses Smaller

LONDON (CP) — London, the Liverpool dock area and an unnamed town in the Midlands were the principal targets last night of German air raiders, attacking in dozens of small groups of fighter-bombers.

Dwelling houses bore the brunt of the damage, but reports indicated casualties were few, the Ministries of Air and Home Security announced.

The raiders came earlier in the night than previously and stayed overhead throughout, about eight operating at a time, in contrast to the former tactics of 100 or more planes in an opening rush, followed by small waves.

Four German planes were destroyed in air battles over England yesterday, the government announced. The British lost three fighters.

"Last night the enemy's air attacks were again directed principally against London, but a number of bombs was also dropped in a town of the Midlands and on the Merseyside. There were isolated attacks in several other parts of the country, particularly in the south.

"Houses in many parts of the London and suburban areas were hit, but the total damage both to dwelling houses and to industrial buildings was not severe.

"Reports of casualties are not yet complete, but there is no indication that the number is large.

"In the town in the Midlands houses were damaged, but only very slight damage was done to industrial buildings.

"On Merseyside the attacks bore a similar result, the damage being almost entirely confined to dwelling houses, a number of which was demolished. In both areas fires were started, but were speedily put out and the casualties, though few, included some persons killed.

"In other parts of the country a number of houses have been damaged. Reports indicate, however, that the casualty figures have been small, and that taken as a whole the damage has not been heavy."

Bomb Destroys Vacant Rooms

Two hundred homeless Londoners in the crowded east end owed their lives indirectly today to a German incendiary bomb.

The missile in a recent raid set fire to the roof of a school where they were being sheltered, and the authorities refused them readmission pending building repairs.

Last night a heavy bomb hit the structure, demolishing the vacant shelter rooms.

Germans Say Rail Station Hit

BERLIN (AP) — The German high command's communiqué today said:

"Light fighting units renewed their assault on the British capital and militarily important objectives were destroyed in East London, at a rail station, Exford, Victoria Docks, as well as sections of the city north of the Thames.

"Several airfields developed in which our chasers were victorious.

"Of Le Havre, an army battery fired on an enemy U-boat. Thereupon dive bombers attacked the boat with bombs. Strong detonations were heard and boat wreckage was brought to the surface so it is assumed the submarine was destroyed.

(A similar claim was advanced by the Germans yesterday.)

"Marine artillery fire forced back enemy speedboats which tried to approach the Flanders coast. Convoys in Dover harbor came under effective fire of our marine artillery.

"In the night, again strong rolling attacks were directed against industries and dock facilities in London, as well as Liverpool and Birmingham.

"Mining of British harbors was taken in stride.

"In yesterday's air fights the enemy lost 17 planes. Seven German planes were missing.

"As published previously, German speedboats last night sank two armed enemy merchantmen and two enemy tankers totaling 33,000 tons.

"A submarine under Lieut. Cmdr. Bleichrodt, who previously had reported partial results on his last exploit, sank a total of 42,000 tons of enemy shipping. With that Bleichrodt has destroyed a total of 93,862 tons."

Canadian Hero

Less than five months after he left on special duty with the Royal Navy, Sub-Lieut. George Henry Kirkpatrick "Pat" Strathy, 22, of Toronto, died in action aboard H.M.S. Ajax off Sicily. His body is now reported at Gibraltar. Strathy was one of 26 top-ranking Canadian mathematicians and physicists sent to England at the request of the British admiralty to work with leading English mathematical experts on new means of detecting enemy aircraft, submarines and "smaller bodies."

233 Service Deaths Listed By Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — A total of 233 deaths in the Canadian navy, army and air force is shown in a compilation of figures issued since the start of the war and supplied by the three services.

The total includes all deaths of men serving in the navy and the air force wherever they occurred, but does not include army deaths in Canada, a few of which have occurred due to accident or natural causes.

The official army list shows 94 deaths, all overseas. The navy list contains 67 names and of these 54 deaths were the result of enemy action, eight were due to natural causes and five to accidents.

The air force list contains 71 deaths of which 66 occurred in Canada and five in the United Kingdom. In addition the air force lists the death of one army officer, not shown on the army list, as it occurred in a flying accident in Canada. That makes the total of 233. The air force also lists the death of one officer of the Royal Air Force which occurred in a flying accident in Canada.

The army has four men reported missing and one reported a prisoner of war. The air force lists two men as missing in Canada. The navy has no one listed as either missing or prisoner.

Red Cross Stands Alone in Appeals

OTTAWA (CP) — Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, deputy minister of War Services, in a statement issued to the press said the Canadian Red Cross Society had "indicated that it could not at this time consent to entering into any joint appeal" for funds with other organizations.

The statement was made public after a meeting here yesterday for the purpose of canvassing the advisability and practicability of the major voluntary war service organizations in Canada uniting in one drive their appeals to the Canadian public for funds.

Present at the meeting were representatives of the Canadian Red Cross Society, the Knights of Columbus Canadian Army Huts Fund, the Canadian Legion War Services Fund, the Y.M.C.A. War Services Fund and the Salvation Army Red Shield War Services Fund.

"These are the five national war service organizations authorized under the War Charities Act to conduct national appeals for funds during the first year of the war," Mr. Justice Davis said in his statement.

Lloyds Shelter 60 Feet Underground

LONDON (CP) — Lloyds, the insurance underwriters, will take almost any insurance risk, but no risk at all from air raids, thanks to a $50,000 ($222,000) bombproof shelter 60 feet below the ground.

When the famous Lutine bell supplements the siren in warning that an air raid is on, the 200 underwriters and 5,000 employees take shelter in the steel and concrete sub-basement vaults formerly used to store records.

There they really can do "business as usual," or get a haircut, buy cigarettes, or order a quick lunch or even theatre tickets in tiny shelter "shops."

The arrangement is considered, in London to be a model of safety and efficiency.

4th Term Nomination

EDMONTON (CP) — The citizens' committee will nominate John W. Fry for a fourth consecutive term as Edmonton's mayor. Nomination will be made November 4, and November 13 will be polling day.

The citizens' slate for the seven vacancies in the city council is Ald. Hugh John Macdonald,

Analyst Expects Willkie to Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Emil Hurja, who as a Democratic analyst forecast the election of President Roosevelt in 1932 and his re-election in 1936, now predicts the election of Wendell L. Willkie by a plurality of from 1,500,000 to 3,000,000 votes.

"So great is the defection among 1936 Roosevelt voters in urban areas," Hurja said, "that if it continues, the present campaign may take on the proportions of a landslide."

Hurja, executive director of the Democratic National Committee from 1932 to 1936, now is publisher of Pathfinder Magazine. His prediction before a Republican meeting, he said, was based on an "idealized cross-section poll" taken over the nation within the last 10 days.

He said President Roosevelt began to slip as early as 1936.

Madeleine Carroll Vows Vengeance

VANCOUVER (CP) — Actress Madeleine Carroll says she has a "debt to pay to Hitler" for the death of her sister in a London air raid, and she is going to pay it "with every ounce of my strength."

"I'm going to fight Hitler with everything I have—to the last bell," said the English-born star in an interview here. "I can't be a soldier, but there are other ways that I can pay Hitler back."

Visitors here with Miss Carroll from the south were actors Preston Foster, Lynn Overman and Robert Preston and associate producer William M. Pine. The party is en route to Regina for the premiere of the film "Northwest Mounted Police," receipts of which will go to the Red Cross.

Firefighting Aid

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The active co-operation of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs has been promised the Dominion government in the proposed sending overseas of a Canadian fire-fighting force to assist British firemen in these strenuous days of air raids. Fire Chief James Armstrong, association secretary, said here this afternoon.

(In Ottawa Mr. Justice Davis, Associate Deputy Minister of National War Services, said one suggestion placed before the department by various cities and towns was that each fire brigade in the Dominion send one man and maintain him during his service in the United Kingdom.)

In 1936 Barnum and Bailey's circus showed a famous horse-drawn carriage — the "fabulous Duryea motorwagon."

The Invasion That Failed

NOW ACCEPTED BY THE MINISTRY, from unusually reliable informants, is the report that Royal Air Force bombers frustrated a German attempt at seaborne invasion of England on September 16, "by the ferocity of their attack" on Nazi troops after they had been loaded on their ships "preparatory to braving the Channel crossing." It was on the day in question, incidentally, that an official R.A.F. communiqué reported a direct hit on a German warship, severe damage to an oil tanker and supply ship, and the sinking of three smaller vessels, with damage to others. Also on the bombing agenda for September 16 were concentrations of war supplies, barges and shipping at Hamburg, Wilhelmshaven, Antwerp, Flushing, Ostend, Dunkerque, Calais, Boulogne and Le Havre—practically the entire invasion coast of Germany and the occupied Low Countries and France. All the attacking planes returned safely to their bases.

Various narratives on this subject from travelers from the Old World to the New have been published in the newspapers of this country and the United States in the last month. Some may have smacked of the fantastic, some may have been the product of wishful thinking, but even the more conservative reports have indicated that the attention the Royal Air Force has paid to all the Nazi-occupied ports in recent weeks has given the German high command a series of headaches that will not respond to the aspirin or any other type of medicinal treatment. The failure of this invasion attempt on September 16, the constant pounding of embarkation points, the still more vicious bombardment of the main railway and canalized communications in the enemy-dominated hinterland and in the Reich proper, may account for some of the murderous ferocity which has marked the attacks carried out against nonmilitary objectives by Goering's aerial armadas since September 7.

Frustration of this attempt, moreover, now imparts more significance to the many warnings which Prime Minister Churchill has given to the British public than seemed justified in some quarters at the time. It is not too extravagant to suggest that the "incident" of September 16 was responsible for the new life recently imparted to the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis. And was it not the day before that the R.A.F. celebrated its greatest victory—185 German planes destroyed? The Brenner Pass meeting of Hitler and Mussolini assuredly did not end without the Führer's admission of failure to land on British shores. So far new diplomatic moves in the Balkans have only partially made up for the totalitarian's inability to squash Britain and turn its undivided attention to other parts of the British Commonwealth. But is it not possible that the daily and nightly bombings of enemy concentrations along the Nazi-held coastline may soon produce a human problem in the armies of the Reich for which no solution is to be found in "Mein Kampf"?

Tribute to the R.A.F.

ALTHOUGH WE STILL FEEL LIKE touching wood every time the Russian press condescends to pay tribute to Britain and the British people, because nobody knows from one day to another how Soviet political and diplomatic winds may veer, an article which appeared yesterday in the Red Star—organ of the military of Moscow—has bluntly told the Russian people that Germany's air offensive against the island fortress has failed. Not only were the British folk able to continue to defend themselves, the newspaper emphasized, but were able "effectively" to carry the battle far into Germany. It amplifies its comments:

"In spite of its experience with surprise attacks on enemy air fields the German air force has been unable to repeat this experience in England. The battle shows that neither side has been able to achieve mastery of the air. Both sides are carrying on active operations. Unbeaten British aviation is even extending the radius of its action. British bombers have been extremely effective in the Channel ports and in continuing attacks on the German rear and Berlin. . . . The uninterrupted bombing of London has resulted in the tremendous destruction of houses, fuel dumps, power stations and transport. But the defensive capacity of this giant city remains great, enabling it to continue industrial and civil activity."

It would be foolish to extract any consolation from the foregoing remarks of the Red Star beyond that which has been borne out by hard fact. British official communiqués, guarded accounts of the progress of the air war by neutral observers, no doubt have helped the Moscow military organ to reach its own conclusions. But it is permitted to add the Red Star's view of a phase of the conflict which has developed into the most spectacular of all time to those other Soviet newspaper commentaries that of late must have caused the rulers of the Nazi and Fascist countries at least temporary annoyance. For it suits Stalin's diplomacy, of course, to observe any military discomfiture which Britain may occasion Hitler.

According to Dr. Funk, the Nazi Reich's future prospects, when they strike gold, will rush rapidly away from the scene.

Still a 'Lone Eagle'

MANY OF OUR FRIENDS IN THE United States by this time must be wondering why Colonel Charles Lindbergh should choose to ignore their intelligence by suggesting they would be serving their interests by supporting national policies that, to all intents and purposes, would give the totalitarian the benefit of the doubt about their intentions toward this hemisphere and the world in general. The "lone eagle's" latest outburst, of course, was intended to persuade the electorate to defeat President Roosevelt on November 5. Naturally, he did not mention the chief executive specifically by name, or Mr. Willkie either; his chief complaint still seems to be that the government at Washington is not getting along anything like so well with the governments at Berlin and Rome and Tokyo as he thinks they ought to be getting along.

Lindbergh is right when he says his compatriots are overwhelmingly opposed to war and for the time being are not in the very best of positions to wage war against one of the powers whose good will he contends has been alienated by Rooseveltian policies. What this young man appears to overlook, however, is the fact that the British people were overwhelmingly opposed to war, were unprepared for war against the material might of Germany. But it is too much to expect the gallant Colonel to admit that if Britain had continued to be "nice to Germany," if she had pursued her appeasing policies still further, the unpreparedness of his own country might have presented him with a much more disturbing argument for radio discussion than he now has. Perhaps this supposition should be qualified; the "lone eagle" by this time might be filling a role unfamiliar to those countries now enslaved by the men whom he thinks the United States ought to be getting along with very nicely indeed—if 130,000,000 freedom-loving Americans would only heed his advice and trust Hitler!

An Old Tradition

HERE IS AN ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH from Alexandria, Egypt, under date of October 17, which makes strange reading for Nazi eyes:

"A British seaplane guided an Italian hospital ship toward the wreckage of Italian destroyers sunk by the British cruiser Ajax off Sicily, British naval vessels reported today."

The seaplane was on patrol duty in the Central Mediterranean area when it sighted a vessel identified as the Italian hospital ship Aquileja and directed it to the remains of the fighting craft in a vast patch of oil, two or three miles away.

"In the midst of the wreckage were five or six floats and two boats." The tradition of the sea has been automatically obeyed on numerous occasions by British seamen; many have paid for their chivalry with their lives—not from drowning, but from axis bullets.

To Wheel!

THIS IS POPULARLY SUPPOSED TO BE the age of the automobile, but the bicycle is more popular today than ever before in its history. No less an authority than the United States Census Bureau says more people are riding the vehicle of the sprocket and handlebars than since that day just about 100 years ago when a Scottish blacksmith named Kirkpatrick MacMillan applied driving levers to an old bone-shaking contraption called a celeripede.

Last year, the Census Bureau says, 1,252,029 bicycles were manufactured in the United States. Their value is placed at $22,449,000. That total was higher than the previous record which had stood from 1899, at the height of the horse and buggy days, when 1,182,691 bicycles were built. More adults are riding bicycles for pleasure and exercise, and at a time when we place an increased premium on physical fitness.

Mr. Hanson's other recent and unfortunate break during recent weeks was made in his Canadian National Exhibition address. In this he attacked the joint defence plans entered into between Canada and the United States as "just a stunt to help President Roosevelt's re-election." Now, with him making public the military secret about British airmen being transported to Canada to complete their training, the Winnipeg Free Press thinks Mr. Hanson is not only "becoming a figure as fantastic as a creation by Walt Disney, but much more dangerous."

BACON FOR ENGLAND

From Ottawa Citizen
Canada is eager to do all that is possible—even go out of her way—to make available to Britain the food she has in abundance. But according to some observers Canada is not doing this. Last Friday the Winnipeg Tribune, in an article entitled "Has Ottawa Heard of the War?" took the government to task on two counts. One was that Canadian bacon was being held up on this side because Britain has not the Canadian dollars "to lay on the line." It quotes Paul Reading, Southern newspaper writer, to the effect that the problem could be eased "by a larger provision of credit from Canada"—perhaps against Britain's large holdings of Canadian securities—but that such a step "has not been discussed in Ottawa."

The other has to do with the importation of British cloth goods into Canada. It appears that the British textile industry is eager that something be done to scale down the high tariff walls against it. The Tribune quotes Charles Bishop, Ottawa's parliamentary correspondent, as saying that "tariff authorities" in Ottawa see "little sign" of such response from Canada.

It is certain that the time has come to drop the customary tariff buckshoring and to abandon the monetary policy of deflation. Canadian dollars need to be made more available. This war that Britain is fighting is for existence.

DIFFERENCE

IN THIS WAR, something very remarkable has happened. For the first time in human history the front is not in lines or trenches—the front is in the street, in the garden, in the city, in the village. For the first time the trenches are whole nations, and in them whole populations: Old men and young men, women and children, rich and poor, kings and commoners. For the first time in human history whole peoples are being initiated into the Spirit of the Front. Whole populations learn the lessons of that spirit—the lesson of common humanity, the lesson of what it is that really matters in this life.

The result is amazing: Somerset Maugham expressed it in a triumph of understanding the other day: "People are nice." H. G. Wells, that acid commentator on man's weakness—on the race that "seems to have been given a mind only to go out of it"—grudgingly admits of his people, "They are rather noble."

Yes, that is the amazing revelation: The human race is a noble race. It is much better than it seems, in those long times when "getting and spending lay waste our powers." Its spiritual possibilities of fortitude, courage, co-operation, affection, voluntary discipline and stark heroism have been unknown even to itself. The instinct that makes a mother protect her child and a man his wife at the risk of their own lives is spread to a wider circumference by every man and woman and child. A letter from England says, "I saw three little girls run into a shelter after four successive nights of bombing. Each had a doll in her arms, and each held her hand over the doll's face to protect it."

A letter from Norway says: "Some time you will know how the people of Norway behaved. Truck drivers, whose trucks were commandeered by German soldiers holding a pistol at the back of the driver, drove straight down cliffs, destroying themselves and their cargo."

And, "200 Austrian soldiers who had been given hospitality in Norway when they were starving war children, refused to shoot. Their leader said, 'This is no decent thing to do.' They were all executed."

TRANSFORMED

ONE WOULD THINK that under murderous bombardment, exposed to noise and sleeplessness, the mind would become caloused, and the sensibilities dulled. The contrary appears to be the case. The sensibilities are heightened; the love of life accelerated; the eyes and ears and all the senses become more acutely susceptible to the lovely sights and sounds of this world. A lady writes about clouds and trees and gardens; a wounded aviator sends a poem, written after Dunkerque, in which everything has been observed—though how, one wonders, under the awful pressure of those hours. A bookkeeper writes like a poet.

A friend, writing, ends her letter with a quotation:

"Hold hard the breath
And bend up every spirit to its full height,
Let us so bear ourselves
From this day to the ending of the world.
That we, in it, shall be remembered.
We few, we happy few, we band of brothers!"

"We happy few," is it, perhaps, the greatest happiness to have one's faith in human fellowship restored?

Those who make the peace, when this war is over, will all have been in the trenches, all at the front—the front into which one is pitched from one's bed, or into which one stumbles in one's front yard.

And therefore it will not turn out as the politicians expect, or as they who started it planned.

WE ARE CANADIANS!

We are Canadians! Canadians are we
Sons of the broadlands, mountains and sea.
We are the bondmen of Liberty,
Canadians! Canadians are we!

We are Canadians, wholeheartedly
Marching with England, in unity
Smashing the strongholds of "Hitler."
Canadians! Canadians are we!

We are Canadians resolutely
Treading the Highways of Destiny.
"Faith of Our Fathers" virile and free
Canadians! Canadians are we!

Hunting season for quail, willow grouse and pheasant opens Saturday, with shooting forbidden before 12 noon during the first two days. Also forbidden is shooting over private property without permission or from any road. "Hunters! Look out for public when shot fly," is the appeal of the Cowichan Leader. Too often in the past it has been a case of the public having to look out for hunters when shot fly.

PAGE HORATIO

SEVERAL HUNDRED years ago a writer by name of W. Shakespeare made one of his characters, Horatio, express skepticism of the existence of anything outside the limits of ordinary experience. He got the famous rebuke about there being "more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in your philosophy."

Perhaps some modern Horatio can explain this story which I gathered recently from first-hand sources:

Last year in Sweden, in a home owned by people well known in many countries, the time had come to go to bed. The lady of the house preceded her husband toward the stairway. But, as she was about to start upstairs, she got a real shock. For she saw, as plainly as she had ever seen anything, a man standing there facing her. The man held out a child in his arms. The child had a bleeding gash in the forehead.

The lady ran back into the adjoining room, told her husband what she had seen. They both agreed that her nerves must be somewhat on edge, and decided to take a holiday a little earlier than they had previously intended.

SHIPS MEET AT NIGHT

Not many days later the world learned that war had come again. On the trim Swedish yacht, Southern Cross, they were getting the bulletins by radio. Not so far away on the British ship Athena, hundreds of passengers were congratulating themselves that they were safely out of war-stricken Europe, and bound for America, where the war was not likely to become a matter of life and death to the civilian population.

Then, with a sickening shock, the Nazi torpedo, loosed as a deliberate quick lesson to America to show what German frightfulness could mean, struck into the very bowels of the crowded ship. In a matter of minutes many were dead, killed by the explosion, or drowned. But hundreds had safely got away in lifeboats.

The radio was sending out to all the world the first appalling SOS of the second appalling war of these times. The Swedish yacht sped to the scene of the dastardly crime with all possible speed. The world long since learned the public part of the story. Our own government gave a special medal of honor to the owner of that yacht for the magnificent work done for Canadians, or rather for humanity, on that tragic night.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

It fell to the lot of the lady of that ship—the lady of this story—to receive with her own hands some of the survivors of that tragedy.

The very first child which she took into her arms over the side of the lifeboat was a dying child with a bleeding gash in the forehead. And it was held out to her by the same man whom she had seen, or thought she had seen, at the foot of the Swedish stairway a week or two before.

How do I know?
Because I heard it from the lips of other survivors who were aboard that yacht, and who heard it from the lips of the lady herself before they were transferred to the City of Flint.

Imagination? Invention? Hallucination? Perhaps.

But the lady told what she saw on the foot of the stairway to her husband the moment after it occurred—and to others, too. Somebody might tell Ripley about it. I refer it to Shakespeare's Horatio.

Canada Defends Alaska

From the Canadian Institute of International Affairs

Alaska is a possession of the United States but it is largely dependent upon Canada's mobilized forces for its defence. Up until this summer this territory, as large as the province of Quebec, was garrisoned by about 300 men, stationed at Chilkoot Barracks, near the Yukon border, since the days of the gold rush. Several months ago reinforcements of between 600 and 700 American soldiers were sent to guard the new army air base at Anchorage.

This air base has developed as a result of greatly increased United States interest in its north-western possession, once considered safe by reason of its remoteness but now realized to be the central point on the so-called Great Circle route from the United States to Japan. Reports of Russian military activity in northeastern Siberia, only a few miles from American soil, and Japanese development of a naval and air base at Paramushiro, just 600 miles from the last Aleutian Island of North America, have served to dramatize the strategic importance of Alaska. The distance from Seattle to Yokohama via the Aleutian Islands is about 4,900 miles. Via Honolulu it is 6,500. Flying by way of Alaska there is no need of making a single hop longer than 900 miles, whereas the initial stage of the journey by the Hawaiian route is across 2,400 miles of open sea. If the United States wished to attack Japan, bases in Alaska would be indispensable. For purposes of defence, likewise, these bases would be necessary for aerial patrols which could prevent an enemy from outflanking the great naval base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. It is essential also that Alaska be held, if only to prevent an enemy from operating from such a dangerous position.

PREPAREDNESS

For only a little over three years, the United States has been building defences. Bases for planes, ships and submarines are being built at Sitka, not far north of Prince Rupert, B.C., at Kodiak on the Gulf of Alaska, and at Dutch Harbor far out on the Aleutian island of Unalaska. Meteorological stations have been set up, to provide information essential for those handling both planes and guns. Land has been acquired for air and military bases at Fairbanks and Anchorage, and when these are completed over 3,000 troops, including anti-aircraft units, will be sent to Alaska.

Communications are the greatest problem in the defence of Alaska. For this huge territory there is only one railway—470 miles long—and 2,500 miles of roads, often eliminated by Arctic blizzards. Air travel is the only feasible means of communication and defence. Last June a significant service of the Pan-American Airways was inaugurated from Seattle to Juneau, with connection to Fairbanks and Nome. Nome might easily be an important base on an air route to Asia. Last spring, the president of Yukon Southern

Well-known Couple
Wed at Garrison
Church

St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church was decorated with pastel dahlias and chrysanthemums for the marriage last evening at 8.30 of Alice Marguerite, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lund Parkinson, 1235 Lyall Street, and Mr. Melvin S. Lawson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lawson, 98 Moss Street. Rev. W. C. Western, D.D., performed the ceremony.

Mr. Parkinson gave his daughter in marriage. She made a pretty picture in her wedding gown in Tudor style of white slipper satin embroidered all over with gold, with a full train extending from a bustle back. Over this was worn a pointed jacket with long, tight sleeves. Her veil of embroidered tulle fell from a coronet of crushed roses, and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses showered with violets.

The bride's sisters, Mrs. Raymond Kersey and Miss Helen Parkinson, and Miss Violet Owen were her attendants. Tudor-style gowns of white brocade with slight trains, and fitted jackets and Mary Stuart caps of net, and baby gardenias. They carried bouquets of red carnations tied with silver. Mr. Romilly Knott was best man, and Messrs. Raymond Kersey and Kenneth Lawson were ushers.

Mr. C. F. Boulter played the wedding marches, and as the register was being signed Miss Ruth Bawtinheimer sang "I Love You Truly."

A large number of guests were later welcomed at the home of the bride's parents, the bride and groom standing before a fireplace banked with white chrysanthemums and greenery beneath tall white lighted tapers on the mantelpiece. Mrs. Parkinson wore a floor-length jacket gown of deep plum blue chiffon with a small train and wore a black velvet hat trimmed with blue, and Mrs. Lawson wore a becoming frock of Alice blue lace and a blue hat trimmed with leaves shading from pink to grey. They both wore corsage bouquets of roses.

The three-tier cake, embedded in folds of pink tulle, centred the bride's table, which was arranged with baby pink chrysanthemums and lighted with pale pink candles in silver holders. Mr. W. A. Jameson proposed the toast to the bride.

After the honeymoon, for which the bride left in a teal blue tailored suit with a muskrat coat and black accessories, Mr. and Mrs. Lawson will return to Victoria to live.

Lieut. Marcel Godfrey, who won the medal for the best painting in the B.C. Artists' Exhibition in Vancouver, went over on last night's boat to receive his award. He was accompanied by Mrs. Godfrey.

Miss Anne M. Moffatt, who has been living in Nanaimo, and whose marriage to Mr. Gordon Hoyt will take place this morning, arrived today to stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Moffatt, May Street, until her wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rowbotham returned from Vancouver yesterday after spending their honeymoon at Harrison and other points on the mainland. They will spend a few days in Victoria before going to their home on James Island.

Mrs. Thos. Burns held a tea on Sunday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Kay, who was celebrating her birthday. Mrs. C. Henderson poured tea. The invited guests were: Misses Audrey Draper, Joy Sprinkling, Peggy Draper, Betty Cutt, Flossie Ray, Velda White, Rhoda Leeman, Theresa Perkins, Thea Hawkins, Joan Stewart, Joyce Wallace, Aileen Keith, Edith Scott, Joyce Woodburn and Molly Appleby.

Mrs. Sidney Smith, Silver Mine Trail, Shawnigan Lake, entertained at tea Wednesday afternoon in compliment to Miss Beulah Woodruff, a much-feted bride-to-be. Many useful gifts for the pantry were presented in a wicker basket decorated with green paper. The tea-room was prettily decorated with flowers and streamers in mauve and yellow colors. The guests were Mrs. A. Layton, mother of the bride; Mrs. H. E. Hawking, Mrs. G. Orr, Mrs. Gannon, Mrs. Stillwell, Mrs. Pettit, Mrs. Edde, Mrs. Elford, Mrs. Maitland, Mrs. E. Gibson and Mrs. Havers.

Miss Anne (Tiny) Field, whose marriage takes place shortly, was the guest of honor when the members of her bridge club gathered at the home of Miss Lillian Foster, Collins Street, on Wednesday evening, and presented her with a lovely Scotch lace cloth and table mirror. A corsage of brown chrysanthemums accompanied the gift. Bridge was played, the winners being Miss Jessie McGillivray and Miss Freda Carter. Those contributing to the gift were: Misses J. Carter, G. Gannon, G. Bridges and the Misses Bessie Gannon, Jessie McGillivray, Lillian Foster, Freda Carter and Alice Smith.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Tuberculosis Veterans will hold their annual sale of work on Saturday afternoon in the T.V.A. Clubrooms, 812 Blanshard Street. The affair will be opened at 2 by Mrs. W. C. Nicholls. Afternoon tea and supper will be served, and in the evening cards will be arranged.

After a honeymoon up-island, Mr. and Mrs. Davis will make their home at 808 Cornwall Street.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. O'Donoghue, in a burgundy red dress and accessories, assisted by Mrs. Davis, in a claret velvet dress and matching accessories, and both wore corsage sprays of Sweetheart roses.

The bride's cake centred the buffet luncheon table, surrounded with sprigs of heather, with vases of roses as decoration.

Ask Housewives Not To Buy Japanese
Oranges

Members of South Vancouver Island Women's Institutes went on record yesterday urging housewives to refrain from purchasing Japanese oranges. The step was taken following the suggestion made in a letter from Mrs. H. McGregor, provincial president.

Other resolutions endorsed included one from the Royal Oak Institute regarding the establishment of a chair of home economics at the University of British Columbia. This was followed by the Pender Island Institute's resolution that Provincial government grants to the Solarium should be increased and also that the dental clinics should be continued.

The meeting also approved a resolution urging the women to take a more active interest in matters of government by studying public questions so that they could use their vote with intelligence, and thus be prepared to assist in the building up of a new world order after the war.

Officers elected at the closing session were: President, Mrs. Wm. Feden; first vice-president, Mrs. A. W. Chambers; second vice-president, Mrs. E. Kinloch; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. T. C. Johns; and director, Mrs. I. Cairns.

The delegates listened with interest during the afternoon to an address by Miss Lyna Menn on the subject of "Evacuee Children," in which she pointed out that there were 50,000 homes in Canada ready to receive children from the Old Country, but that the British government had been obliged to defer sending the children on account of lack of safe transport. She spoke enthusiastically of the 35 children who had come directly under the care of the Council of Social Agencies in Victoria, and pointed out that children of the type already arrived here should be a real asset to Canada.

Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan told the members of the interest of Mrs. C. W. Hamber in all matters pertaining to Women's Institute work and of her gift of $100 to start the rest room in the Peace River District, a project which had now been completed. Mrs. Hamber had also provided scholarships in the weaving school conducted by Mary Meigs Atwater, at the University of British Columbia, during the summer and had made possible the permanent handicrafts exhibition which is sent out to various institutions throughout the country, and had provided a gift of used clothing to be sold in the Peace River District to provide the nucleus of a fund for further aiding the settlers.

Miss Hilda Leighton read a report of the Othos Scott fund.

Ask Surplus Wheat Be Sent to China

A resolution to be sent to the Wheat Control Board at Ottawa asking that a large share of Canada's surplus wheat crop be sent to China, was passed by a group of members and friends of the committee for Medical Aid for China, assembled to hear Mrs. Campbell-Brown of Vernon, B.C., yesterday at the rooms of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Campbell-Brown, a former missionary in China, who returned to spend 14 months there recently, spoke of the abject poverty of millions, who kept alive on a ration of one bowl of watery rice, grew thinner day by day and died like flies from epidemics on account of their undernourished condition. Because, advanced in years and without adequate funds, she returned to help them they would not let her pay for anything and shared their pitiful repasts of rice with her, writing her later, "Our thanks are carved in our very bones."

The speaker gave sketches of her experiences, the varied and sometimes dangerous way in which she traveled round the country, the hospitality and courtesy of the people. During her stay, she returned to Chong

Chow in Fukien, where 46 years before she had started a school in her home with a few ragged children—a school now numbering 1,500 pupils. The audience was shown a picture of the present palatial quarters of the college, a former brigand chief's barracks.

Every boy and girl graduating from China's educational institutions, regardless of class, must give up a year to teaching in village schools, so that all educators, officials, etc., will in the future know the country people, understand their difficulties and sympathize with their problems. When she visited Manila to collect funds for China, Mrs. Campbell-Brown was met by one of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's important Council of 14, who governs China, who informed her he had been one of her early pupils at Chong Chow. She also spoke of her meeting with Mrs. Selwyn-Clarke of the China Defence League at their offices in Hongkong, of the efficient work which they do for China and of their appreciation of Victoria's help.

Mrs. Campbell-Brown told of the unity of all classes of the people in China, of their certainty of victory, stating that the Japanese have no control just outside of the central towns which they held and cannot even get supplies there, the villagers uniting against them. Japanese captured turn into supporters of the Chinese when they learn the

Mme. de Gripenberg Has Thrilling Tale

"Last week we had the pleasure of hearing a Madame de Gripenberg, the wife of the Finnish Minister to London, writes Mr. Justice Gordon of the Court of Appeal, Saskatchewan, to a prominent Red Cross worker of Victoria. She has some splendid pictures of Finland and some movies of the Finnish war.

"Her object in coming to Canada is to thank us for what we did in their time of trouble. She is an excellent speaker and simply took the town by storm. As she is paying all her own expenses, I hope that people will turn out to hear her. She is an English girl by birth, and speaks perfect English. I am writing this letter just in case you are able to pass the word on that she is well worth hearing," the letter concludes.

Japanese propaganda is untrue and receive such fair treatment as prisoners, China, unprepared and entirely un-equipped, she said, had for three years been fighting for democracy, fighting the same fight as our own and she ended on a plea for the necessities of life for a brave people.

Provincial I.O.D.E. Raised $35,000 Since War

CHILLIWACK—Over a half million dollars, $532,000 to be exact, has been raised in Canada since war began by the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, stated Mrs. Frank Stead, provincial war work convener, at the semiannual meeting yesterday of the Provincial Chapter.

Of that vast sum, $35,000 has been raised in British Columbia during the past six months, $15,000 going for the purchase of four tons of wool out of which 8,000 garments have already been made and purchased, representing an expenditure of $10,000, and sent to the Lady Tweedsmuir's committee.

These have been distributed among the navy and the merchant navy on both Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and among men on minesweepers and trawlers in England and Scotland. Included in these articles were 634 pairs of Indian-made socks particularly suited for seamen, also leather-lined wind-breakers.

Further highlights of Mrs. Stead's report told of refugees and evacuees in Britain benefiting by $2,000 sent to Lady Reading's committee in England, while reconditioned garments have been distributed locally to evacuees.

For Canadian sick and wounded in England, 2,612 articles of hospital supplies have been sent abroad.

The "Bomber Fund" stands at $10,261 and is still open for contributions.

SOLDIERS' LIBRARY

In addition to a drive for new and nearly new books, $500 has been used for the purchase of library books serving B.C. training camps, units and stations. From the Vancouver Master Library, 21 libraries are circulating 3,669 books, and from a similar one in Victoria 12 subsidiary ones have 2,300 volumes in circulation. More books are required and will be gratefully received, also magazines for distribution in air, army and navy stations, the number already given out running into hundreds of thousands.

Mrs. Stead stressed the point that while war work is taking priority in the order's efforts, peacetime projects are not being neglected one iota.

WHEN you wish to talk to a person, you can walk or travel miles to do it. But, with exceptions, you don't. When you wish to pay bills or make purchases, you can carry around with you a bundle of cash or a sack of coins. But, with exceptions, you don't. In the one case you use a telephone. In the other, you use a cheque on your bank. In either case you save time and effort by using a convenient modern device. And you use the one as naturally as the other. Canadians do make extensive use of the services of the chartered banks. Deposits in chartered banks at the time the last return was made to Parliament, totalled $2,530,000,000; cheques issued and debited to individual accounts in August, 1940, the most recent month for which returns are available, totalled $2,457,706,218. These figures show that most Canadian business is done by cheque and illustrate the extent to which the people make use of the banking system. The banks take pride in the modern services they provide for your convenience.

In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, their useful services—safeguarding depositors' funds; facilitating the nation's business—looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis of enduring prosperity.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

New Fords Are Larger

Two smartly-styled new Ford V-8 cars, with longer wheelbase, roomier bodies and improved riding qualities, are presented by the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, at the National Motor Co. Limited, showrooms on Yates Street today.

Called the DeLuxe and Super DeLuxe types, the two cars represent the most complete change in body design and chassis engineering made in Ford cars in the last five years.

Wheelbase has been lengthened to 114 inches, and overall length to slightly more than 16 feet. Riding qualities have been greatly improved. New long, softer springs; improved shock absorbers and a newly-designed stabilizer to smooth out rough roads, combine to provide a new riding sensation described as a "gliding ride."

The front contour presents a distinctive use of one large centre grille and two side grilles. Long sweeping front fenders enclose the sealed-beam headlights, with separate parking lights mounted just above them. The wide windshield and flaring body sides in-dicte the increased room available inside the body. The rear fenders blend into the body panels and from behind give an impression of one-piece design. A large, lighted rear deck compartment, with full width door, houses the spare tire and tools, and provides plenty of space to stow luggage.

The instrument panel has all instruments grouped for perfect visibility through a two-spoke steering wheel. On the Super DeLuxe model, a horn ring on the steering wheel, and clock are part of the equipment. Also on the instrument panels of both types are lighter, ash tray, locking glove compartment, dimming control for panel lights, speed control for dual windshield wipers, starter button and radio speaker grille. A new convenience on both cars is an illuminated ignition lock and another is the remote control hood lock operated by a knob under the instrument panel.

All Ford cars are equipped with ventilating wings. The metal divider strips on closed cars slide down with the rear half of the window. A crank control for opening and closing the ventilating wing is an added convenience on the Super DeLuxe.

Much greater vision is afforded both driver and passengers in the new Ford cars. Glass area has been substantially increased, the increase being as much as 33 per cent in the coupes. The larger rear window, of one-piece curved tempered glass, permits greater vision of the road behind.

The new wider seats are built with a soft "floating" edge and individually pocketed cushion springs. Springs are covered with a thick, rubberized pad. The driver's seat, adjustable over a 44-inch range, rises as it slides forward, making better vision and easier control possible for drivers, regardless of their stature.

Both the new Ford lines for 1941 are built on the 114-inch wheelbase chassis and are powered by an 85-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine. This is still the only engine of this kind in the low-priced field. An important engineering improvement is in the transmission, which now is geared to give even faster getaway in first and second speeds.

to contain opium, was found in his pocket.

The defence centred on the contention Joe Kam, a straw boss at the Cameron Lumber Company sawmill, had incurred the resentment of a fellow countryman who had said "by-and-by I will fix him up good." The accused had left his coat hanging in a hall outside his room in the sawmill and a packet could have been placed in his pocket. He had not seen the packet before it was taken from his pocket by police officers, he said.

JURY DISAGREES IN OPIUM CASE

Joe Kam, Chinese, whose first Assize Court trial on a charge of illegal possession of opium ended yesterday in a jury disagreement, will be tried again next week on the charge.

The accused was charged with possessing the drug on August 24. Crown witnesses testified Joe Kam was taken by R.C.M.P. officers in cabin 34, Theatre Alley, on August 24, and a small packet of yeh shee, later proved

AID TO BRITAIN WILL CONTINUE

"There is no power on earth that will prevent the American nation from supplying Britain with all the war material she is at liberty to send," said Frank D. Davison, British-born Seattleite and former Victorian, in an address before an intercity luncheon meeting of members and their wives of the Seattle and Victoria Rotary Clubs yesterday at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Davison, who is a graduate of Oxford, is connected with the British-American Relief Organization in Seattle.

People in Seattle, along with those in the other states, have been giving, are giving, and will continue to give all possible aid to the Allies in the way of money and war material, the speaker continued. "It is the spirit in which it is given that touches one most," Mr. Davison said. "It is not a case of 'take this, we are giving you this,' but 'take this, we owe it to you.'"

The miracle of heroism of the British people is what has decided the United States to back Britain to the fullest, a heroism that is brought about by the fact that even though they are faced with destruction their love of freedom, religious tolerance, democracy, has sparked them to greater efforts, to say "we must hold."

The program was in charge of Frank J. Barrett, Seattle, member of the intercity committee. Roland Vivien, dynamic community singing leader from Seattle, led the large group in the singing of several popular songs. Also journeying from the Sound City was Madam Sokolofsky, introduced as "the sweetest singer in Washington." She sang "Morning," "L'amour, Toujours," and "There'll Always Be an England." Mrs. B. Campbell accompanied on the piano.

Vice-president Abe Lindsay was in the chair. The speaker and soloist were thanked by Dr. W. J. Sipprell.

READ POEMS BY VICTORIA AUTHORS

Four poems, composed by members of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Authors' Association and published recently in national magazines, were read at a meeting of the Victoria association last night in the Princess Louise Room of the Empress Hotel. Cupid Used Radio In Romance of Arctic

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—A tale of romance in the Arctic was unfolded here yesterday by Maj. D. L. McKeand on his return from a 12,000-mile cruise through the eastern Arctic as commander of the ice-breaker Nascopie.

Two weddings were performed aboard the Nascopie during the trip. One of the bridegrooms was Corporal Robert Warren Hamilton of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, known as Paddy throughout the service and by all who have traveled in the far north. The other was P. A. C. Nichols, a Newfoundland who has spent many years in the sub-Arctic as manager of trading posts. Both married American girls.

GOT FAN MAIL

In 1937, after three years in the most isolated of all mounted police posts, Craig Harbor, little more than 500 miles from the North Pole, Paddy was at the landing place when the Nascopie anchored in the harbor.

Paddy and his companion of officer spent a day reading scores of letters, the accumulation of a year, which had been dumped in their laps. Most of it was "fan mail" from blondes and brunettes across Canada and United States to these exceedingly colorful bachelors.

Paddy was due for a furlough, so he came out in the Nascopie. He remained a year in southern Canada, but the lure of the north held him and in 1938 he was on his way back to Craig Harbor, still single, a happy, laughing, hearty man, delighted to be once more in the north.

When the Nascopie left Montreal she carried several tourists, one of them beautiful Dorothy Boehmer, a librarian from Sherrill, N.Y. She and Paddy quickly became friends and by the time the Nascopie reached Churchill they were engaged. Paddy went on to Craig Harbor and Miss Boehmer back to Sherrill, but each night the Northern Messenger broadcast news to the Arctic the radio waves carried Miss Boehmer's love to "Corporal Hamilton at Craig Harbor."

This year Miss Boehmer boarded the ship at Churchill and met her fiancé at Craig Harbor. They were married by Bishop A. L. Fleming of the Anglican Diocese of the Arctic as the Nascopie headed eastward from Craig Harbor. When the ship reached Pangnirtung the couple left the ship, for Corporal Hamilton now is stationed there.

The other romance began in 1938. When Miss Boehmer left the ship at Churchill that year, Marion Bull of Rochester, N.Y., took her place. She met Nichols, who had been in the north five years. They became firm friends before they parted. Later, while he was at Cape Smith on Hudson Bay and she was at Rochester, he proposed to her by wireless and she accepted. They were married this summer by Rev. J. H. Turner, Anglican missionary, as the Nascopie crossed Hudson Bay.

Major McKeand also told of another romance. Florence Giles, a Toronto girl who for four years has been nursing at Pangnirtung, came south on this trip. Another passenger was S. J. Stewart, who for several years has been manager of the trading post at Pangnirtung.

"They told me they were to be married in Toronto soon after their arrival," Major McKeand said.

STRAWBERRY VALE

The annual congregational supper was held Wednesday evening at Wilkinson Road United Church. Tables were served by members of the Women's Auxiliary, and the guests were received by the president, Mrs. J. Hoy, assisted by Mrs. W. Allan, Mesdames G. Jones and A. Allison assisted as conveners. A musical program included instrumental and vocal duets by Mrs. J. Nimmo and Mrs. F. V. Rush. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., spoke on "The Outstanding Need and Function of the Christian Church in Modern Times."

Lion Feuchtwanger Safe From Hitler

NEW YORK—Lion Feuchtwanger, German-Jewish novelist, who has arrived in New York, denies a report that he had been beheaded and said he had escaped from Hitler's wrath simply by getting himself kidnapped, putting on a disguise, acquiring faked papers, hiding for a while and then climbing the Pyrenees.

He also said that Germany had already lost the war and insisted that he had been right in 1932 in saying that "Hitler is finished." That is, the novelist conceded, Hitler would have been "finished" then except for some political accidents in his favor.

SILENT ON AMERICA

Feuchtwanger declined to discuss America, now that he finds a haven here, on the ground that real information couldn't be had in Europe and therefore he could not know anything. He held that stand although reminded that before coming to the U.S. in 1932 he had written a book presenting Americans as superficial, on the one hand, and on the other as a composite of Sinclair Lewis' Babbitt, Edison and Henry Ford.

Feuchtwanger, slight and 5 feet 3 inches in height, looked ruddy and seemed animated, but said that he greatly needed rest.

He was greeted by Leonard Nims, chairman of the Exiled Writers Committee, welcoming the author in behalf of the League of American Writers, and by P. W. Huebner of the Viking Press, his publishers. They requested that Feuchtwanger be permitted privacy for a day or two. They said he would be uneasy until his wife arrived. She is still in Europe.

FRANCE'S MISTAKE

"One of the biggest mistakes of the French government," said Feuchtwanger, "was that so many of our anti-Nazi people were put into concentration camps. That in itself shows there was Fascist influence. It was like a repetition of the Dreyfus affair. The authorities wished to get the attention of the public away from those who were truly guilty so they repeated the persecution of the Jews."

(Feuchtwanger has been an exile from Nazi Germany for years and has lived in France. Three of his works, "Power," "The Ugly Duchess" and "Success," were destroyed in the notorious Nazi burning of German literature.

IN TWO CAMPS

The novelist, while saying that he knew "with mathematical certainty that Germany has lost the war," would not elaborate or make any definite predictions. Nine-tenths of the French people are against the Petain government, he said.

Feuchtwanger had been in two French concentration camps, at Les Milles and at Nimes. He tried to find a way of escaping from the latter but was kidnapped by an American friend instead.

"We had permission to bathe once a week," he said, "in a river three miles from camp. There were many of us and the one guard did not notice when a man in an automobile told me to ask no questions but get in quickly. Thus I escaped."

CLIMB PYRENEES

He and his wife, on foot, climbed through a pass of the Pyrenees into Spain and on reaching Lisbon he was put aboard ship after all accommodations had been booked. The captain did not know his identity until the ship was well at sea.

While Feuchtwanger was in a French concentration camp the British were dropping thousands of leaflets into Germany quoting from his works.

On arrival his only possessions were in his small rucksack.

Canada Defence Act Cases Are Remanded

Lillian Cooper and Wilson Money, charged under the Defence of Canada Regulation with having in their possession books, pamphlets and documents intended or likely to be prejudicial to the safety of the state and the efficient prosecution of the war, appeared on remand in Spanish Police Court yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Henry C. Hall and were remanded until next Thursday afternoon.

Both reserved plea. Miss Cooper has been released on her own recognizance, while Money is still held in the city lockup.

Money faced similar charges in the City Police Court yesterday.

N.H.L. to Pay For Amateurs

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY
VICTORIA'S GREAT sprint champion of British Columbia tracks during the season just closed, Killarney L., made an auspicious debut on California strips Wednesday, running a great second to High Strike over the six-furlong route at Bay Meadows. Although recently arrived in the south, W. H. Smith's five-year-old brown gelding was just nipped at the wire by a head after setting the pace from the starting gate. After becoming thoroughly climaxed, the local thoroughbred should win his share of races in his campaign on California tracks.

Trained by "Doc" Darbyshire, who appears to have given up the chiropractic business in favor of conditioning horsemanship, Killarney L. was shipped south along with MacPhalaris, another seasoned campaigner under Darbyshire's wing. The genial "Doc" went south with the horses and, before departing, gave us a word of advice: "After a couple of breezes, get the odd $2 down on Killarney because he will certainly win a race or two down south." Darby apparently knew what he was talking about, as his bet nearly came down the first time.

Killarney L. was running in plenty fast company Wednesday. The six-furlong event was for three-year-olds and upward for a purse of $900, with a claiming purse of $3,500. With Jockey Bunsell in the saddle, Killarney L. broke second from the gate and at the half was two lengths on top, followed by Dip, Dare Bunny, The Cloud, High Strike and Uneasy. At the three-quarter pole, Killarney L. was still the pacesetter, with two lengths over Dip with The Cloud running third. Entering the stretch, Killarney was leading the pack by two lengths, with the Dip still running second. In the final stretch, High Strike closed with a rush to take the Victoria sprinter at the wire by a head.

The race was described in the official form chart as follows: "High Strike was outrun for half the distance, then moved fast on the outside and although losing ground wore down Killarney L. to get to the front near the end." (Turn to Page 18, Col. 7)

NEW YORK (CP)—Governors of the National Hockey League, in probably their last season before the ice game gets under way for the winter, yesterday authorized President Frank Calder to sign an agreement with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association under which the N.H.L. pays cash for amateurs who sign pro contracts.

The all-day meeting, attended by representatives of all seven clubs, discussed at length the referee situation, but spent most of its time going over clause by clause the agreement with the C.A.H.A.

This agreement, accepted in principle at the last meeting of which Dr. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton, representing the C.A.H.A., was present, had as its principal clause the question of payment by the N.H.L. to the C.A.H.A. of a sum of money to reimburse amateur clubs for their expenses in training players.

It was agreed that the N.H.L. will pay $250 to the C.A.H.A. when any amateur player signs a contract offered by a professional club in a minor league affiliated with the N.H.L. If the player signs an N.H.L. agreement the C.A.H.A. receives an additional $250.

This money will be disbursed by the C.A.H.A. in the place or places where the amateur received his training.

It was also decided that in cases where the player after signing a contract is unable to find employment as a professional player, the N.H.L. will apply to the C.A.H.A. that the player be reinstated as an amateur.

The new agreement also covers the other leading amateur bodies, the British Ice Hockey Association and the Eastern Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, so that similar sums will be paid in the event that amateurs under the jurisdiction of those bodies, all of which with the C.A.H.A. are members of the International Hockey Association, are signed to professional contracts.

Art Ross, manager of Boston Bruins, offered to approach Bill Stewart, the referee and baseball umpire, to see whether a dispute that has arisen over Stewart's services can be settled before the season opens.

It was explained that the (Turn to Page 18, Col. 6)

Baseball Men Set for Draft

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball is going to take its draft medicine without a shudder, but the major league magnates are keeping their fingers crossed and their ears to the ground nonetheless.

Bob Quinn, president of Boston Bees, summed up the attitude of most of the club owners in a survey made by the Associated Press: "I have been in the game over 50 years, during the Spanish and a few other wars. This is an American game, and if never tried to hide. Baseball will be right there as always and do whatever America wants it to do."

There are approximately 500 players in the major leagues and some of these are almost certain to be summoned to one year's military service. However, a majority of them are married, or have other dependents, so that on any one club no more than half a dozen are likely to fall into class one of the draft, subject to immediate call.

GILES SPEARS
Warren Giles, general manager of Cincinnati's champions also expressed a common view:

"Baseball wants to do its part. We're not going to ask exemptions, and if some favorite is drafted he'll go just as quickly as the bat boy. It probably will strike around about evenly. If we should lose Paul Derringer or Bucky Walters (both are married and have children) maybe our nearest competitor will lose somebody they need just as badly."

Clark Griffith, president of Washington Senators and liaison man between baseball and the government during the first Great War, said:

"We are all studying the situation carefully and may have some suggestions later. Right now national defence is the main issue. It's the government's business and we aren't butting in."

As for the effect on the minor leagues themselves, William G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, declared:

"The minor league clubs are made up of players from all sections of the country, and this lessens the chance of any one club being stripped of many players through the draft. I do not believe the minor leagues will be seriously jeopardized. They will carry on as usual, doing their part in the defence program and asking no special privileges."

Bucky Harris May Manage Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The newspaper Plain Dealer said in its columns today it had learned from an authoritative source in Washington that Stanley (Bucky) Harris has been offered a one-year contract to manage the Cleveland Indians of the American Baseball League.

Harris's contract as manager of the Washington baseball club expires this winter.

The Plain Dealer said it was reported Harris expressed willingness to succeed Oscar Vitt as Cleveland manager but insists on a three-year contract.

In School Gala Tonight

Two of Victoria's outstanding youthful aquatic stars who will be seen in action tonight when 200 or more Greater Victoria public and high school children take over the Crystal Garden for their 16th annual championship gala. A large gallery is expected to be on hand to watch the swimming stars of tomorrow perform. Proceeds from the show will go to the Lord Mayor's Fund. Miss McKinnon, daughter of Archie McKinnon, well-known "Y" swimming coach, will be wearing the colors of Oak Bay High School, while Johnstone will represent Victoria High School.

With the Hunters

Pheasant Season Opens

If residents of Saanich, Metchoin or Cowichan Lake districts hear an uncommon lot of gunfire in their respective neighborhoods tomorrow afternoon they should not get excited and jump to the conclusion an enemy is conducting an invasion.

It will merely be the opening volleys directed at pheasant, quail and ruffed grouse flocks. While gunshots can go out at sunrise tomorrow to try and bag a ruffed grouse or two—the game regulations prohibit shooting of pheasants and quail until noon on the first two opening days—tomorrow and Sunday—with shooting closing at 5.30. For the rest of the season shooting time is sunrise to 5.30.

A pre-season survey on the pheasant-quail situation indicates that lower island hunters should enjoy some good shooting. There are reported healthy crops of both, largely due to a favorable breeding and rearing season. Metchoin, Cowichan Lake and Saanich are expected to draw the majority of lower island hunters seeking pheasants and quail. These three areas have always had the biggest populations of game birds.

Hunters are advised, however, in regard to Saanich to be careful about restricted areas. There are more than usual and all do not come under the Game Act.

Willow grouse have never been plentiful on the island, but they are generally found in marshy country.

SEASONS

Pheasant season lasts until November 24, with three cocks allowed daily and 20 for the season; quail season lasts until November 17, with 10 birds allowed daily; 50 a season; ruffed grouse season ends November 3. The bag limit on the latter has a connection with blue grouse. Six of both are allowed daily, with 24 of both allowed for the season.

Blue grouse and buck deer are still in season, making five different kinds of game legal targets for island sportsmen.

Three Cage Games At Sports Centre

Three basketball games are slated for decision tonight at the Willows Sports Centre.

Starting at 7 Dominoes and Cloverdale Aces, intermediate B boys' aggregations, will clash. This will be followed by a senior women's game between the Cardinals and Unity, two keen rivals of last season.

In the feature clash Chinese Students and West Road will tangle in a men's senior B engagement. The Chinese were runners-up to Champion and White last season.

Major Battles On Grid Front

The east's leading football teams get all mixed up tomorrow in two games that should unscramble the picture somewhat and present a clearer view in looking for the section's champion.

This is the week-end to show just who has what in the Interprovincial and Ontario Unions.

The main battles are at Ottawa, where the champion Rough Riders confidently await the charge of Lew Hayman's Toronto Argos, and at Toronto, where Balmy Beach will see it's true what they're saying about the battery boys from Sarnia. The victors—as this corner sees them—will be Riders and Balmy Beach.

Two tougher games to call involve the four clubs which have yet to get a victory. The Tigers make a stand in their Hamilton lair against Montreal, while Hamilton Alerts round out the O.R.F.U. schedule against Camp Borden in the University of Western Ontario stadium at London.

Left back—Tommy McKibbin, fiery red-headed defenceman and on the of the most colorful players in the league. Tommy is suffering from a knee injury received last week-end, but expects to be in his usual spot tomorrow.

Right half—Laurie Pallot. This player is making his debut with the Radials after several years in the Vancouver District League with Kerrisdale. The remarkable fact about Pallot is that although he has been a street car operator for several years he was not considered by the Radials management until he eliminated his fellow-workers from the Mainland Cup by scoring two goals for Kerrisdale last season. Laurie is six-foot two and weighs 190 pounds. He is best at centre forward but is also a strong defencer.

Centre half — Veteran Eric Camp, and allround player and captain of the team.

Fast Clubs For Major Soccer Tilt

Victoria United will make its second start in the Pacific Coast Football League tomorrow afternoon at Athletic Park. Starting at 3, the locals, who suffered a 4 to 3 defeat in the opening match here Monday against St. Saviours, will tackle Vancouver Radials, present holders of the Canadian championship.

In announcing the Victoria team for the game, Manager Dr. Arthur Povont stated there would be a few changes over the club that was beaten Monday. Only additional player to the squad is Cliff Robbins, who will most likely see action on the forward line.

The Victoria line-up follows: Moss, Wilkinson, Sage, Moon, Restall, Hope, Morgan, Travis, Cosier, Dallimore, Cooper, Barnes, DeCosta and C. Robbins.

With only two exceptions the Radials will present the same line-up that won the national title two years ago. There was no Canadian final this spring because of the war. Missing from the line-up will be Johnny McKay, inside right, and "Booey" Greet, inside left.

VISITING PLAYERS

The Radials team, with thumbnail sketches of each player, follows:

Goal—Stan Strong, well known as one of the most outstanding keepers ever developed in Vancouver.

Right back—Jim Lawrie, slight but wiry defencer. Jim has twice played on a Dominion championship eleven—with Radials and also with Johnston Storage eleven.

Left back—Tommy McKibbin, fiery red-headed defenceman and on the of the most colorful players in the league. Tommy is suffering from a knee injury received last week-end, but expects to be in his usual spot tomorrow.

Right half—Laurie Pallot. This player is making his debut with the Radials after several years in the Vancouver District League with Kerrisdale. Water Hearing Adjourned Again

At the suggestion of F. L. Shaw, city solicitor, the city-Oak Bay water rate hearing before the provincial public utilities commission was adjourned yesterday afternoon until Wednesday morning at 10.

Mr. Shaw sought the delay to permit him to reply in full to Oak Bay's case, both on the original submissions and the points raised by R. F. Blandy, Oak Bay municipal clerk, yesterday.

Mr. Blandy claimed the commission's attention for three hours in the morning and about an hour and a half in the afternoon winding up his case.

During the later session the Oak Bay representative suggested that the city's claim against the municipality for part costs of the 20-inch main serving it should be discounted since the financing costs of the main were negligible in comparison to the returns Victoria received from Oak Bay for water.

He fixed the cost of water to Oak Bay at 3.71 cents per 1,000 gallons on the basis of revised figures used by Oak Bay as the result of city submissions.

DIFFER ON PROFIT
Mr. Blandy contended the city's water profit during 1939 was $127,669, not $8,683 as submitted by Victoria.

On the question of Oak Bay being charged for the depreciation of the water system, he held the city should place those charges on the taxpayer. Such costs would amount to only 13 cents a year on each taxpayer on Oak Bay's account, while the municipality relieved city taxpayers of the equivalent of 55 cents apiece through the returns from water.

On the basis of his figuring a legitimate rate would be approximately 4 cents per 1,000 gallons, he said, noting that on that basis the so-called cheap water allowed bonded industries was not as cheap as it appeared.

Mr. Blandy reiterated Oak Bay's contention Smith's Hill reservoir was of no value to the municipality and should not be included in a cost estimate before dealing in some detail with alleged surplus land on the watersheds, which he also claimed should not be listed in costs.

Told Thousands About Telescope

In the passing of Hugh Little, Saanich lost another of its old-time residents and the staff of the Dominion Observatory a valued and respected member.

Mr. Little was born in Aylsham, Norfolk, England, on January 31, 1874, being the youngest son of

Late HUGH LITTLE

Dr. Frederick Little and Lucy Johnson Little. Leaving England with two older brothers about 1890, he spent three years on a fruit farm in southern California before settling in Saanich in 1893.

As a young man he was a noted athlete and played cricket and football for many years. Old-timers will recall the brilliant rugby team, champions of British Columbia for 1898-1900, on which Mr. Little played as a forward. The team was captained by A. T. Goward.

He served with distinction throughout the Boer War with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, having the King's and Queen's medals with bars. Always interested in shooting, for many years he was a big game hunter and guide in northern British Columbia. On the walls of his Saanich home is a fine collection of 15 heads of bears, moose, elk and deer as evidence of his skill.

Appointed constable when the Saanich police department was first organized, he later served as chief of police from 1914-1918. He resigned this post to accept the position of attendant at the observatory, which opened that year, and this position he held at the time of his death. He well understood the work of the observatory and took pride in demonstrating the use of the telescope to the tens of thousands of persons who yearly visit the institution.

He was a member of Mount Newton Lodge, A.F. and A.M., of Saanich, which organization conducted the funeral service this afternoon.

Dies at 107 Years
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—John N. Ridgley, 107-year-old veteran of the American Civil War, died yesterday. A year ago he won a court fight to prevent his 78-year-old son, W. S. Ridgley, from being appointed his guardian and being given control over his $77,000 estate. The elder Ridgley contended his son was too old for the job.

No Bible Reading in Schools—Weir

Commenting on the efforts of a churchmen's committee to permit Bible reading in the schools, Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, said in an interview in Vancouver that any attempt to make it part of the school curriculum would "be largely futile and productive of more harm than good."

opposition to Bible reading in class now was even more pronounced today than it was in 1925.

"Under the circumstances," Dr. Weir said, "the compromise suggesting extra-mural instruction for which academic credits would be given, would seem reasonable. Adequate safeguards in respect to the subject matter requirements and standards of instruction and testing are involved, and would be worked out by representatives of the churches and the Department of Education." "A similar arrangement is now in effect regarding art, music and physical education."

Some months ago endorsed a resolution presented by Trustee F. A. Willis favoring reading selected passages of the Bible in city schools. While a minority opposed the scheme in a camera discussion, the majority supported it on the grounds the modern generation was not receiving the opportunities of religious training made available to their parents. The city motion asked consideration by the department of the proposal since no curriculum innovations may be introduced without government sanction.

Health Minister Inspects Station

On a brief visit to Victoria to inspect the William Head quarantine station, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health and B.C.'s representative in the federal cabinet, arrived from Vancouver this morning.

Mr. Mackenzie is making a tour of the nation, visiting hospitals, quarantine stations, laboratories and other institutions that come under his department.

At William Head the hospital accommodation is being improved and enlarged with additional bedding to take care of any emergency that may be presented by war conditions.

The minister is accompanied by his deputy, Dr. R. E. Woodhouse.

On arrival this morning he was met by R. W. Mayhew, M.P., and was Mr. Mayhew's guest for breakfast.

Mr. Mayhew accompanied Mr. Mackenzie, Dr. Woodhouse and other officials about the quarantine tender Salucan V for the trip to William Head.

When they returned Mr. Mackenzie and Dr. Woodhouse planned to fly to Vancouver by Canadian Airways. He will go east by train, visiting Edmonton and Saskatoon.

In Vancouver yesterday Mr. Mackenzie laid the cornerstone of a new $700,000 military hospital building at Shaughnessy.

He said that since the outbreak of war the Dominion had made a four-fold increase in its hospital accommodation for military purposes.

By the beginning of 1941 there would be 8,000 beds available for military use, compared with 2,000 last year.

"Already the number of active service cases receiving treatment in our hospitals averages about 1,000 on any given day," he said.

"These are for the most part merely the minor ailments and accidents incidental to training. For these we have been able to provide suitable care and accommodation by simply expanding the existing nucleus of our permanent hospital equipment."

The minister said that in course of his tour he had been impressed by the effective manner in which the government hospital staffs had risen to the new emergency.

The minister announced Dr. O. G. Giddon of his department will shortly come west to confer with Major S. F. M. Moodie, A.R.P. officer here, on co-operation between federal and provincial authorities in connection with civilian protection work.

Many persons believed the earth was round 4,000 years before the birth of Christopher Columbus.

Technical brilliance and musical ability highlighted the spectacular performance last night at the Royal Victoria Theatre of one of the world's great male voice choirs—General Platt's Don Cossacks.

An audience that packed the theatre gave freely of its appreciation and applauded every number, some enthusiastic patrons taking to whistling and cheering.

Under the dynamic leadership of Nicholas Kostroff, the choir sang perfectly, the 25 voices matching beautifully, with artistry of shading and control, held in check in amazing fashion by the director.

Like a great organ, at other times like a harp, the choir accompanied the various soloists. Particularly fine was the bass section, some fine voices being noted here. The tenors, too, did outstanding work and the director worked on each section like a great organist on his chosen instrument.

Unfortunately, many people thought, there was little variation to the program. In fact, there was monotonous similarity about many of the numbers. The audience might have welcomed some of the famous male opera choruses, although no sign of boredom was seen.

The first part of the program was given over to sacred numbers, among them Tchaikovsky's "Blessed Be the Lord," "Inspire My Prayer, O Lord," "Pater Noster," "Lord Have Mercy," "Credo" and "Evening Bells." In all the choir excelled, giving a cathedral-like atmosphere.

Spectacular with its whistling and shouting was the Cossack war song, entitled "In 1893." This had to be repeated. Encores included a rather unusual interpretation of "Dark Eyes," the great Russian gypsy love song and the ever popular "Volga Boatman."

The dancers on the program were outstanding. While the choir hummed and chanted the music, a little Russian in a black bushy beard did a thrilling dance, tossing swords from his mouth into the floor, where they stuck. The last number on the program was "Kozachok," the popular national dance of the Don Cossacks. It was a very exciting dance, with all the abandon and gaiety of the old Russian court.

Three times the choir changed costume. In the first part they wore blue tunics, in the second red and in the third white silk, with black, red-striped trousers.

Hilker Attractions brought the choir to Victoria. It was announced on the program the Seattle Symphony Orchestra, under Dr. Nikolai Sokoloff would appear in Victoria shortly.

A new sewing thread patented in the United States is said to be so smooth that it greatly reduces friction in passing through a fabric.

MOST ENJOYABLE OF SHIRLEY'S FILMS

Bubbling over with mirth and melody, and with Jack Oakie and Charlotte Greenwood sharing the fun, "Young People," new 20th Century-Fox hit now at the Dominion Theatre, has been heralded as the most enjoyable of all Shirley Temple's 22 pictures.

"Young People" is Shirley's first musical picture in two years. There are five top-notch songs cleverly blended with the plot in "Young People." The unusual story deals with troupers Jack, Charlotte and Shirley, who decide to retire from the stage in a small New England town.

With Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor perfectly teamed in the starring roles, "Waterloo Bridge," now at the Cadet Theatre, is one of the "must see" films of the year.

Balancing a tender and beautiful love story against a powerfully dramatic war background, the picture has everything in the way of brilliant performances, an absorbing romance, spectacular settings, exciting action and unusual photography.

Bing Crosby and Gloria Jean are starred in Universal's "If I Had My Way," which is at the Oak Bay Theatre.

This is the first time this tunic pair have appeared together in a picture. It is Gloria's second screen offering.

Bing and Gloria sing duets and solos and introduce some of the most attractive songs yet heard from the screen.

A team of genuine Alaskan mammoths is featured in "Girl From God's Country," Republic film which is at the Plaza Theatre, with Chester Morris and Jane Wyatt in the starring roles.

Charles Starrett, western hero, currently starred in Columbia's roaring romance of the range, "Blazing Six Shooters," at the Rio Theatre, has a musical library which includes recordings of every song the Sons of the Pioneers have sung in his pictures. They added five new tunes in his current hit, Iris Meredith plays the feminine lead opposite the star.

A big all-fun, all-Technicolor novel screen program is the Great Walt Disney Festival, now at the Atlas Theatre. The array of delightful entertainment includes "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

ROYAL HONORS MAY GO TO CANADIANS

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the Royal Canadian Navy serving in home waters are eligible for awards of honor by King George just as are their comrades serving in Canadian ships in United Kingdom waters in co-operation with the Royal Navy, Navy Minister Macdonald told a press conference today.

The point arose following the announcement last night the King had honored six Canadians for meritorious service during the rescue of survivors from the Canadian destroyer Fraser was sunk.

The ban against Canadians accepting honors from the King, particularly titles, did not apply to honors for meritorious military service, the minister said.

Should a Canadian sailor in Canadian waters perform a service meriting an award of honor, the recommendation would come from his immediate superior officer and go to the chief of the naval staff at Ottawa and on to the Navy Minister. If the minister agreed with the recommendation he would send it to the British Admiralty.

Longshoremen Stage Sit-down Strike

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—More than 100 longshoremen staged a two-hour sit-down strike on the dock of the Japanese freighter Onne Maru yesterday because of what they said they considered a slight to the United States flag.

First the men complained because a Japanese flag was flying from the foremast head of the vessel, Capt. Shinjo Fukazumi sought to appease them by raising an American flag on a halyard on the other side of the mast.

The men decided the Japanese flag was flying higher than the United States flag and called the sit-down strike.

Finally the captain settled the matter by hauling down the flags, then putting both on the same halyard, with the American flag on top.

Shipping men estimated the day cost the N.Y.K. lines $400.

NEW CORVETTE FOR CANADA NAVY

A WEST COAST CANADIAN PORT—A trim corvette-type ship of war, named H.M.C.S. Trail for British Columbia's interior smelter city, was launched here yesterday and soon will join a number of sister vessels in the service of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Mrs. G. G. McGeer, wife of G. G. McGeer, member of parliament for Vancouver-Burrard, acted as the sponsor in christening the ship. She quickly wished the vessel Godspeed, and the traditional bottle of champagne was cracked across the bow in a brief ceremony carried out in a driving rain.

Rev. Arthur Bischoffberger and Rev. Father A. R. Wood gave Anglican and Roman Catholic blessings to the new ship.

Attending the ceremony besides Mr. and Mrs. McGeer were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winick, and Mrs. C. G. Beaton, Commander and Mrs. B. L. Johnson and Commander, and Mrs. H. Wilson.

Injured Passengers Recover at Sea

ABOARD SS. PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, EN ROUTE TO JAPAN—Five persons were injured seriously when a typhoon rocked this vessel during the week, are receiving treatment by ship's doctors and nurses; and are recovering.

The storm started suddenly, the big ship tossed violently and great combers broke over her bows. Some portholes were battered in by the force of the gale, estimated at 100 miles per hour.

The seriously injured were: Dr. Harold Thomas, Malden, Mass., of the American Baptist Foreign Missions, broken leg; Mrs. Mercer Blain, New Haven, Conn., severe face cuts; Mrs. Harry Caldwell, Bridgeport, Ohio, fractured ribs; Commander L. C. Thyson, U.S.N., Washington, D.C., torn leg and shoulder ligaments, and Karl Grim, ship's baker, San Francisco, fractured knee.

Capt. Wepster Tells Of Ship Sinking

Capt. J. P. Wepster, well known in the port of Victoria, when he was master of the Dutch motorship Damsterdyk and other vessels of the Holland-America Line, has written an account of the torpedoing of the Voendam, of which he was master, to his friend, A. Vanderpeet, Dutch consul in Seattle.

"Andi," he wrote, "fortunately we all got off without trouble, except the pursuer, who was, alas, drowned. All passengers were saved. Among them were 400 children."

"It was a weight off my chest when I had them all aboard ships which came to the rescue. It wasn't easy, because it was a dark night and rather rough weather. . . . Eighteen lifeboats got away from the ship safely. The children were singing in the boats. It sounded fantastic over the dark water of the Atlantic. They inspired the older ones."

"Sixty remained on board. . . . From time to time, I thought we wouldn't make it, as it had become very rough. And if the bulkheads between compartments 2 and 3 had given way we would have been gone. . . . Now we are in Abraham's Bosom. The stern almost in the trees. It is so calm here that the war seems improbable."

SHIP LOSSES

New York (CP)—The freighter Orangerose, 5,775 tons, and three other British vessels have been lost recently in the war at sea, maritime circles said today.

The Orangerose, which traded between Great Britain and Africa before the war, was sunk by a submarine in the English Channel. The passenger ship Queen of the Channel, 1,162 tons; the freighter Mavis, 935 tons; and the trawler River Clyde, 276 tons, were also listed as lost.

Maritime sources yesterday reported the sinkings of the Swedish freighter O. A. Brodin, 1,960 tons, which traded between San Francisco and Costa Rica before the war, and the Norwegian freighter Gyda, 1,591 tons.

Sailor Found Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—John Martin, 37-year-old sailor from a British liner, was found dead yesterday in the 14th floor hallway of the Hotel Belvedere, near Broadway. He had been badly beaten. Police questioned a number of persons staying at the hotel, including more than 80 cowboys participating in the rodeo at Madison Square Garden.

Bonds

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralls and utilities led the bond market higher today. Fractional gains were in the majority at noon.

Latin American government dollar loans gained.

Regains After Stumble

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market bumped into considerable profit-taking today, but managed partially to regain its balance after a forenoon stumble. Transfers were around 600,000 shares.

Related purchasing of the rails put several of these behind most plus signs. Aircrafts experienced a brief upward flurry and farm implements tilted higher on a light turnover. A number of special ties displayed strength.

The morning set-back was attributed by brokers mainly to the customary cashing in on the eve of a week-end after three successive rising sessions.

General Motors and Chrysler were about even the greater part of the day, although this week's automotive production was estimated by Wards at 114,672 units, a new top for the year to date. It compared with 108,457 in the previous week and 70,114 a year ago.

Among supported stocks were American Telephone, Douglas Aircraft, Sears Roebuck, Paramount, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake and Ohio, J. I. Case and International Harvester.

Backward most of the time were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Du Pont, Dow Chemical, American Smelting, Standard Oil of N.J., and Consolidated Edison.

Active Canadian issues steered. Gainers included Hiram Walker, Distillers Seagram and Lake Shore Mines, Canada 4s, among bonds, rested unchanged.

Mackenzie Crossed Canadian Rockies In 1793

After Mackenzie explored the great river which bears his name, he set out on a new journey which was perhaps equally as exciting. This time he set out to cross the Canadian Rockies. At present, hundreds of persons cross the Rockies each day of the year, but that wasn't so 148 years ago. Mackenzie did his great work before Lewis and Clark traveled to the Pacific coast. It was a long time before steam railway lines were built.

Mackenzie and his comrades working past rapids in the Peace River.

The first part of the trip was up the Peace River, a journey of hundreds of miles. In October a halt was made and a fort was built. Here the party stayed until the following May.

Picking several men for his companions, among them a Scotsman and a few Frenchmen, Mackenzie went on toward the west in an extra-large canoe. The going was now rough, and often the explorers had to wade in the river, pushing their canoe past steep rapids.

By and by, even that sort of progress could not be made through the furious mountain torrent. So Mackenzie fastened a 180-foot rope to one end of the canoe, and the men hauled it forward. Sometimes steps had to be cut in the cliffs beside the river to make it possible for the men to keep up their hauling.

At length there was no more river to float the canoe. The men lifted it to their shoulders and started carrying it toward a certain point. An old Indian had told them of a place where they would reach the headstream of another river.

The distance to that river was nine miles, and it took three days to get there. The stream was the Farnip River.

Another portage was made from the Farnip River to the Bad River. At this point, Mackenzie left all the party except his Scottish comrade, McKay, and an Indian at a camp, pending the return trip.

The canoe was wrecked in the Bad River, but a new one was built. More overland trips were made, and at length the Pacific coast was reached. Thus Mackenzie crossed the Rockies, and went through British Columbia, reaching the coast on July 22, 1793.

The return journey was not so hard. In a few months Mackenzie and his men were safely back in the trading post beside Lake Athabasca.

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19

This is an unimportant day in planetary direction, but benefic aspects dominate.

Women are fortunate today. Romance will flourish under this sway. Girls may expect speedy courtships and hasty marriages. Theatres should profit through a growing desire for amusement that presents comedy or happy phases of life.

Because of the influence of government policies home-building will be rushed in coming months. Housing problems which always attend war possibilities may be largely averted. Women will be instrumental in complying with 8th column plans, although ignorant of the inspiration of certain popular movements.

Mexico will continue to be the scene of many sensational incidents as political difficulties increase. India continues under the rule of malefic stars that cause unrest and disturb British interests.

Persons whose birthdate is in the saguery of a year of perplexities to which love affairs contribute. New friends will be helpful to many.

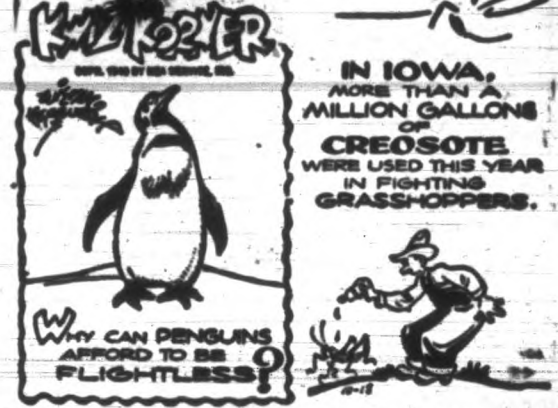

Children born on this day probably will be fastidious, kindly, and attuned to the finer things of life. They have the forecast of personal popularity and good fortune.

CITY WORKOUT

Victoria City soccer team will hold a workout at Heywood Avenue on Sunday at 10.30. Last year's players and anyone else interested are asked to turn out.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

ANSWER: Because there are no predacious land mammals in the Antarctic.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think anything will ever teach girls the folly of having affairs with married men? I am much troubled about a young girl, the daughter of very fine parents who sacrificed much to give her an education, who has recently secured her first position and has already started on the downward road with her employer. We live in a small town and she is now driving the boss' car, staying after hours to write letters for him behind locked doors, going away on week-ends with him, and everybody is talking about her. The man has a lovely young wife whom he has no intention of leaving, because she is not only far more attractive than the girl, but it would ruin him in this community if he did. And we are all wondering why the girl has not sense enough to see this and to realize that she is throwing herself away upon a cad for a few good times, and blocking her chances of marrying any respectable man. Can't you say something to make such girls realize what fools they are?

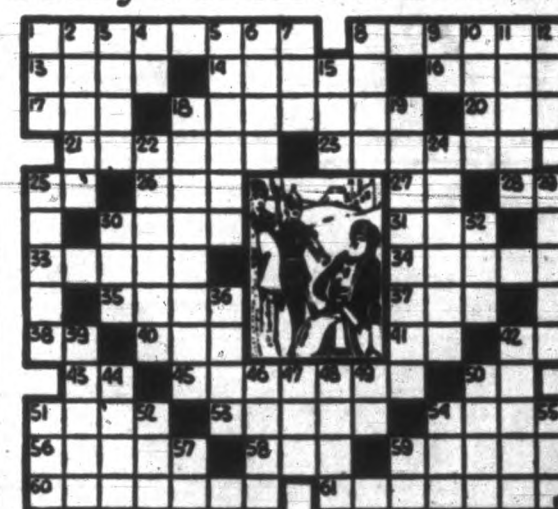

A MOTHER.

Answer: In season and out of season, for years and years, I have preached to girls not only the wickedness, but the utter imbecility they showed in having affairs with married men. I have told them over and over again thousands of times that if they had no regard for morality, if they had no need for their own self-respect, then at least they should have enough care of their own future well-being not to throw away their lives on a bargain in which they are bound to be the losers. For the married men take their youth, their freshness, their cleanliness, and when they have tired of them or the scandal becomes too open, they pass to fresher prey, leaving them nothing but tarnished reputations and the kind of women that worthwhile men do not marry.

But youth does not listen to the warnings of age, nor does it heed the tragedies that have come to other girls who have had affairs with married men. Each one believes that she is going to be the one who can get some married man to divorce his wife, forsake his children, break up his home and marry her. And the poor little sillies do not ever know that no woman can build her house of happiness on the wreck of another woman's.

DOROTHY DIX.
